Bullet From a Passing Auto at Busy Intersection Wounds James Capasso, 26, Ex-Convict.

SEMAR CUT
BY FLYING GLASS

Brother, Clarence, 25,
Also in Machine, Is Detained by Police Pending Investigation.

The busy intersection of Ninth and State streets, East St. Louis, crowded with motorists returning from the Madison Kennel Club at 11:45 o'clock last night when a shot was fired in what police believe was a renewal of the bootlegging fight between Cuckoo gangsters and Italian gunmen, a warfare centered in St. Louis in St. Louis and Madison counties.

The shot seriously wounded one returning from the dog races James Capasso, 26 years old, of 10 Semple avenue, St. Louis, an ex-convict and associate of Italian gunmen. The bullet penetrated his right arm and cut a nerve, paralyzing the right arm. He refused to be taken to a hospital.

Companion, Miss Edith Semar, of 114 North Sarah street, St.
Louis, was cut in the right eye by the shot. She also suffered a flesh wound of the left shoulder.

Man With Capasso Sola.
James Semar, 25, a soda distributor of the Sarah street address, who was with his sister and Capasso in the latter's expensive car, escaped injury. He is held at the East St. Louis police station, where two are in St. Mary's Hospital.

The automobile from which the shot was fired sped away. It was described as a tan roadster, occupied by a man and woman.

St. Louis detectives who said they had accompanied Capasso, an acquaintance of six years, to the dog track, where he won $228, which he had just won. As they were returning home on the Collinsville road, the roadster passed them and dropped back as often as Capasso, driving south in the street, made a boulevard at State street, the roadster sped up and stopped in front of the left.

Man leaned out of the roadster's right hand held a revolver. Without a word, he fired at Capasso's windshield and struck the glass cutting Miss Semar, slumped against the wheel, slumped quickly but the roadster sped on south.

Assault Not Recognized.
Semar and his sister said they do not recognize the occupants of the roadster, and knew of no motorist in the shooting. Capasso told him, all even when told he was the shooter.

Capasso's record speaks for himself. He is an associate of the Giannola brothers and the two brothers, whose lives are being lived in the underworld, have been falling right in the line of the warfare, which is always being originated in the machine industry in and around St. Louis. The most recent of his arrests for investigation was in St. Louis and William Russo were in Russo's armored filling station at Seventh and O'Fallon streets in a tank. Police have repeatedly raided this place as a rendezvous of Italian gunmen, and Russo is seeking to escape the raids. Capasso also was arrested with Joe Rommarito, shot and killed by police last week when he was arrested.

Capasso's police alias is "Long Jimmy." His record includes a five-year sentence to Leavenworth prison for theft from the House in shipment, and a year's sentence to the city workhouse for theft.

FATHER, 90, AND HIS SON, 50, MEET FOR THE FIRST TIME

Sicilian, Sentenced for Murder, and Offspring Who Shot Witnesses, Freed From Prison.

By the Associated Press.
PALERMO, Sicily, Oct. 13.—
Father and son, respectively 90 and 50 years old, who had never seen each other, have met for the first time. The meeting was coincident with their release from prison.

Fifty years ago a peasant from the interior of Sicily was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder. He was told that on the same day a son had been born. When the convict's son was 20, he learned that his father had been convicted on the false testimony of two witnesses. These the son promptly waylaid and shot. For this crime the son was sentenced to 30 years' penal servitude. On the day of the son's release, the father received a pardon and for the first time father and son met and embraced.

Penitentiary Official Batting

Penal Board Member Who Got Prized Trip to California to Return Fugitive Convict to Jefferson City Loses His Prisoner

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 13.—
Earl Hodgerson, one of five convicts of the Missouri State penitentiary who escaped from the prison canning factory Sept. 3 and who was captured Sept. 28 in Los Angeles, escaped again today when he jumped through the window of a Missouri Pacific train in the yards here as he was being returned to Jefferson City in care of Col. William P. McGregor, member of the Penal Board.

When Hodgerson was picked up in Los Angeles and identified as the escaped convict, about half of the penitentiary guards applied for the trip to California to bring him back, expenses of the trip to be paid by the State. To their surprise, the assignment was given to McGregor. He left Jefferson City Oct. 2.

As the eastbound train pulled out of Kansas City at 9:30 o'clock this morning, Hodgerson received permission to enter the washroom.
It was said. He lost no time in going through the window, and when McGregor learned he was gone no trace of him could be found.

Hodgerson, also known as Darwin Howard, is 25 years old. "He was serving a five-year term for burglary. Arthur Bittner of St.
Louis, slayer of his father, who escaped with him, was drowned in the Missouri River, his body being recovered near St. Charles. The other three who escaped have not been apprehended."

ON BOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 13.—Queen Marie of Rumania, voyaging to the new world, today cast formalities to the winds after leaving European soil and took on a democracy appropriate to her presence on an American ship and, therefore, on American soil.

The Queen was up early this morning to take full advantage of her first day at sea. She took a morning plunge with her daughter, Princess Ileana, and then returned to her suite wearing her bath cap and robe. After a hasty toilette, she appeared on the promenade deck. The Queen was dressed in a beige suit and hat and wore a leopard skin thrown over her shoulders. Accompanied by Princess Ileana and Prince Hohenlohe, she made half a dozen turns about the deck.

Her Majesty had luncheon in the main dining room at the table of Capt. Herbert Hartley, commodore of the United States Lines fleet.

The Leviathan today was plopping down a somewhat choppy sea, but the hugeness of the vessel prevented the Queen and her family from suffering any ill effects.

SCHOOL BOARD REJECTS TWO MEN AS PRINCIPALS

L. W. Rader Fails of Approval for Second Time to Post at Ben Blewett Junior High.

PROMOTION FOR D. H. WEIR DENIED

Action in Each Case Punitive, Statements of Members After the Vote Indicate.

The Board of Education last night, by divided votes, refused to approve two appointments of school principals made by Superintendent Maddox.

For the second time, it put thumbs down on the desire of the superintendent to put L. W. Rader in charge of Ben Blewett Junior High School, and it declined also to permit him to put D. H. Weir, an assistant principal in Central High School, in charge of Central High night school.

No member of the majority voted against the majority statement reasons for his vote during the meeting. A general discussion at its close precipitated by the questions of newspaper reporters disclosed that the action, in each case, was punitive.

The objections to Rader. Some members summed up their objections to Rader in the sentence: "He talked too much about six months ago." That was during the time of the board's consideration of the plan of Superintendent Maddox for the reorganization of the administration of his department—a plan which called for the demotion of three assistant superintendents of whom Rader was one.

Rader was quoted in newspapers in a manner which indicated his belief that the reorganization plan did not originate with the superintendent, but was suggested by board members, who desired to rid the superintendent's office of Miss Lillie Ernst, another of the demoted superintendents.

Arthur A. Blumeyer, a board member, said he voted against Rader because he considered him not the best man. Sup. Maddox, in advance of the meeting, said that the reason he insisted that the instruction committee bring the matter to the board, after it twice had voted against Rader, was that he sought to keep the merit system of selection of teachers unimpaired.

He said that he considered Rader the outstanding man for the place and that he was generally recognized as an authority upon matters of junior high school education. As assistant superintendent, Rader was in charge of all junior high schools in the city.

Weir Wrote "Snappy Letter." The answers of members to questions on their vote against Weir, who has served 17 years in the night schools and a longer period in the day schools, were evasive and vague, except that of Richard Murphy. He stated that he had voted against Weir because Weir, as principal of the Central night school, had violated the rules of the board and had written a "snappy letter" in response to a circular of the superintendent. This letter, which has become known in the executive department of the school as the "monkey wrench" letter, grew out of a shortage of books in Central night school early this year.

When it became necessary to abandon use of Central High School building to permit repairs early this year, check of books in use in the Central night school disclosed that approximately 200 books had been loaned to students and not returned. A rule of the board provided that if night school students desired to study at home, they could purchase the necessary text from the Supply Commissioner. Weir, together with other principals of night schools, had upon their own responsibility permitted students to take home books upon the giving of a receipt. When this practice was discovered by the superintendent's office, he wrote a circular letter declaring that principals would be held accountable for all books so loaned.

Weir's Letter in Part. In response to this Weir wrote to E. G. Shackerford, then assistant superintendent in charge of night schools, a letter which he considered personal, of which the following is an excerpt:

"Since it is impossible to conduct the Central evening school on its present facilities without the use of text books outside the classroom, I have taken up with the supply commissioner the matter of purchase of text books by students through his office and I am told that it will require at least six weeks to get the necessary appropriation through the board and begin delivering the books.

"Knowing the temper of the evening school students, I will venture the assertion that during the six weeks' interval hundreds of our students will quit in disgust.

Deplored the Situation. "I am sorry to have such a monkey wrench thrown into the works. It is disastrous. It is impossible. Our school has just reached a point where we could look into the future and think we could see some of our ideals being approached. History is being reversed. The Dark Age is following the Renaissance."

For that letter—and because of a shortage of $100 found in the petty accounts of the same school—Supt. Maddox did not recommend the re-appointment of Weir for last year's second semester, but last night urged that he be reinstated.

The vote of the Board was 6 to 4. Those for his reinstatement were Mrs. Michael, Mrs. Bush, Tobin and the new president, Wagner. Those opposed were Murphy, Schollmeyer, Blumeyer, Heller, Barth and Fahrenkrog. Rollins did not vote, but said after the meeting that he had been informed upon the facts the post-meeting arguments brought out he would have voted for Weir.

Books All Brought Back. Since the check of books was made, Weir, by a canvass of the negligent students, has brought them all back to the possession of the Board.

The Board rattled two skeletons last night. Mrs. Michael, in voting "no" for the election of Stephen M. Wagner as president of the Board, stated that she did so because Wagner had voted in favor of the superintendent's plan of reorganization, hastily—"within a few hours after it was presented." Mrs. Bush was recorded as "not voting" upon Wagner's election as was Rollins. Mrs. Bush, the choice of the Board's caucus for vice-president, would not permit her name to be presented and Ben Weide was substituted.

The other skeleton was an old controversy on the type of seats to be used in the schools. The superintendent has felt that the type of chair is as surely a factor in the pupil's progress as the choice of text books and has recommended movable chairs. The commissioner of school buildings has held that school chairs are part of the building and, because of less cost of upkeep, has supported desks fixed to the floor.

Seat Dispute Up to Attorney. The controversy went back to the Board's attorney last night. Robert Burham, the attorney, said that decision should be made by interpretation of the word "apparatus." The charter of the board declares that "apparatus" in the schools shall be purchased upon recommendation of the superintendent. Burham said he would have to search for a court interpretation of the word "apparatus" and determination of future policy on seats went over temporarily.

Miss Rosa Hesse, who was dismissed as a teacher five years ago, because of her comments upon the candidacy of G. W. Johnson, a member of the board, seeking re-election, was reinstated last night. With Mrs. Michael voting "no" and Mrs. Bush and Tobin, who voted for her dismissal, not voting.

Four Salary Increases. The board increased the salaries of four executives and renamed the incumbents: R. M. Milligan, commissioner of schools building at an increase from $9800 to $10,700 a year; E. M. Brown, supply commissioner, $7000 to $7500; R. L. Daly, auditor, $7000 to $7500; and H. W. McNamee, secretary, from $2800 to $3500. John M. Hadley, son of Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, was named assistant attorney of the board.

Wagner, upon taking the president's chair, said only: "You know me as a one-minute speaker. The only thing I have to say is to thank you and hope that from now on we all will be a happy family."

6 PRISONERS SHOT IN JAIL
MUTINY IN PENNSYLVANIA

MEDIA, Pa., Oct. 13.—A mutiny among 196 prisoners in the Delaware County Jail was subdued today after six of the prisoners had been shot by hastily deputized residents and police.

The prisoners, including a dozen women inmates, attempted to destroy the interior of the jail after they had been liberated from their cells by "trusties" who had knocked off the locks of the cell doors with iron bars. During the outbreak, two fires were started in several places.

None of the prisoners was fatally wounded. A reduction of their food supply by the warden of the jail was given by the prisoners as the cause of their outbreak.

STEPHENSON GOES BEFORE GRAND JURY

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—D. C. Stephenson, former Ku Klux Klan "grand dragon," whose promise to reveal graft and corruption in Indiana politics has been the basis of the present commotion in this State, was unexpectedly taken before the Marion County Grand Jury today and testified for one hour before he was taken back to the county jail.

Stephenson was quietly whisked out of Michigan City prison at 3:1 a. m. and brought by automobile with seven men guarding him. He arrived here at 8:30 a. m. and was locked up at once.

A few women gathered early at the jail and word got abroad that he was coming. Stephenson, who the clothes he had on a year ago when he went to serve a life term for murder. He turned up his overcoat collar and scowled as photographers edged up. His mouth was tightly shut.

Charged in Appearance. Court Asler, his old lieutenant, remarked from the sideline. "Hasn't he got gray." Asler followed Stephenson as a witness before the grand jury.

Stephenson went from jail to jury room and back again through the connecting tunnel and few persons could get within a hundred feet of him.

Prosecutor Will H. Remy, asked what had been Stephenson's attitude before the six grand jurors, said: "Well, his attitude was part of his testimony, and I can disclose nothing."

The report ran that Stephenson had been defiantly noncommittal. Significance was attached to the fact today that the Indianapolis News and Star had knowledge of Stephenson's unexpected movements while the Times, which has been backed by Thomas Adams and his committee of Republican editors from the start, did not.

Stephenson was supposed to be before the grand jury at 9 a. m. tomorrow. Adams had anticipated this by a habeas corpus writ calling for Stephenson's appearance in a civil trial for 2 p. m. today.

Much interest, meanwhile, centers on the following statement of Clyde A. Walb, chairman of the Republican State Committee: "There is evidence everywhere that international bankers on Wall Street have their money in every pocket in this State in the hands of the fakers who are putting on a probe, and at every hand we see the activity of this outfit attempting to defeat our Senators and Congressmen on account of their stand in the United States Senate and Congress on the League of Nations and the payment of foreign debts."

When Walb was pressed for an explanation of this today, he said: "Anything I have to say in regard to this matter I will say to Senator James A. Reed. I will be glad to tell Senator Reed everything I know."

Mr. Adams said this was a bluff and smoke screen, but that it offered a fine occasion for Senator Reed to investigate the Indiana situation.

Appeal to Senator Borah. Attorney-General Arthur L. Gilliam sent the following telegram today to United States Senator William E. Borah:

"Morning press quotes you as saying you believe Thomas Adams of Indiana 'has got the goods' to sustain his charges of political corruption in Indiana and that your belief is founded on documents sent you by Adams. Adams was subpoenaed and appeared before grand jury yesterday in investigation of his charges. I am assisting in this grand jury investigation. Will you please return to Mr. Adams immediately any documents or other evidence in your possession on this subject so he can be brought before the grand jury. The government of the State of Indiana is thoroughly capable and desirous of setting its own house in order if it is shown that it is out of order. But the glaring need of the moment is evidence of fact."

Reed Committee Appealed to. The Indianapolis Times today published a telegram sent by its editor, Boyd Gurley, to Senator James A. Reed at Kansas City, urging the Missouriian to bring his senatorial committee to Indiana.

The telegram calls attention to the letter sent by Walb. Gurley's telegram adds "that this is the gravest charge yet made in any campaign."

It submits that the evidence of such a conspiracy of debauchery, if it exists, can only be properly obtained by your committee.

"The telegram concludes with an appeal to Senator Reed to bring his committee to Indiana 'to investigate this grave charge.'"

John K. Kiplinger, Rushville, Ind., attorney, who was among Stephenson's counsel in the murder case returned from the State prison where he had conferred with Stephenson last night and announced that Stephenson's appeal would be filed soon. The time for filing the appeal expires Dec. 14.

Adams recently made sweeping charges of corruption which he said could be corroborated by investigation. However, a special leader was given an opportunity to make a complete revelation. The publisher has insisted that Stephenson be given a hearing at a special session of the State Senate.

On the direction of Attorney-General Gilliam, however, a special session of the State Senate by the Marion County grand jury.

The impression was given, Miller said, that all of Stephenson's lawyers had been dismissed, and it was then that he entered the case on what he believed to be authentic authority from Stephenson.

He had been here 12 hours and 25 minutes, during which he appeared before the grand jury investigation alleged political corruption.

What Chance Had She

—against this desperate outlaw

A SCREAM of pain and anguish came from the cabin. Fearfully the girl rushed in to see what had happened. With startled eyes she saw the outlaw holding the limp form of her friend, Nan.

Helpless—alone—she stood there while the outlaw's gun lifted in her direction.

He moved toward the door, still aiming the gun at her, carrying Nan in his arms. The girl standing before him trembled. Suddenly her eyes widened and her hand flew to her breast as she looked past his shoulder.

In a flash the bandit dropped the girl and whirled. A man stood in the doorway, calm and grim, his gun raised.

Instinctively the bandit dropped to the floor. The room rocked with the roar of guns.

Where had he come from, this daring truster? How had he found the deserted cabin hidden away from the beaten trail? What chance had he against this famous gunner? What was the outcome of that terrific face encounter?

TOLD MRS. M'PHERSON HER ALIBI HAD FAILED LEADER PROPOSES BEER WAR TRUCE

Woman Witness Resumes Story on Stand Under Fire of Defense Objections.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—Alma Temple McPherson's testimony, headed by W. I. Gilbert, marshaled their full strength in the Municipal Court today in preparation for an attempt to batter down the story of Lorraine Weiss, who was employed to produce evidence in the kidnapping case resulting in charges of criminal conspiracy being filed against the evangelist.

When today's session began, District Attorney Asa Keyes attempted to draw from Mrs. Weiss testimony which the state contends will prove false the story of abduction, told by the evangelist, and show conclusively the Angelus Temple pastor, the Carmel cottage companion, Kenneth G. Orniston, former Temple radio operator and now a fugitive from justice, was the mastermind. When the defense, headed by Gilbert, challenged the state's story, the evangelist, who was in the witness box, it was expected that it would be several hours, at least, before her testimony would be complete.

Many Objections from Defense. While Keyes put his questions to Mrs. Weiss, Gilbert moved to pass an opportunity to object to the manner in which the witness phrased her statements. Meanwhile Roland Rich Woolf, Arthur L. Veltch and Leonard Hamner, all of defense counsel, took notes on every point, preparing to back up Gilbert when the witness came under his cross-examination. Mrs. Weissman also is a defendant in the case, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and others charged with conspiring to obstruct justice and preparing false evidence. No animosity has been offered for her testimony, Keyes said.

Tells of Conference with Keyes. Mrs. Weissman told of a conference, arranged by Woolf, between herself and the District Attorney, at which she made a statement. McPherson's name of the suggestion that she had spent several days in a Carmel bungalow was repudiated. The witness said that she and Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Kennedy, were in the bungalow. She told them she had not been sufficiently "posted."

New Cornerstone for Washington University

WOMAN SUES TO FIX PATERNITY OF TWINS

Accuses Business Man Who Denies Charge — Blood Test to Be Sought.

Mrs. Frieda Hark, 43 years old, mother of six children, has sued in Circuit Court to establish the paternity of twins born to her Aug. 21. Her suit is directed against a prosperous business man, who has a wife and an 8-year-old daughter.

The woman's attorney, Miss Jeanette Murray, who withheld her client's address, said she would demand a blood test to determine the paternity of the children, a boy and a girl. Mrs. Hark is a widow, with four children by her husband, Harry Hark, who died in 1920. Only one, a 14-year-old girl, is able to work and contribute to the support of the family.

According to her attorney, Mrs. Hark met the defendant about two years ago. The defendant admits acquaintance with Mrs. Hark, but denies her charges. He has been ill since last November, when his father died, he declared, and could not have been at a liquor party last December, which Mrs. Hark describes in her suit.

Student Rivalries Close Classes.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 12.—Intense rivalry in interclass rushes at John Carroll University have resulted in the discontinuing of classes until Monday. Sophomores and freshmen, participants in the rushes which have included numerous kidnappings, will be called before Dean Botting to explain violations of promises to university authorities that class attendance would not be endangered by the annual "fight" between the two classes.

up for assassination the two men who had fired on Drucchi and Weiss on Michigan avenue.

Police investigation of the Weiss slaying, while it failed to bring to light any clue to the actual slaying, uncovered a mass of detail.

Plot Against Deneen.

One inquiry was started into charges that the murders had uncovered a gang plot backed by at least $100,000 to corrupt witnesses and jurors in the murder trial of Joe Salts, a Weiss henchman. St. Louis police also were given some attention to a theory that the Weiss slaying was a double cross engineered by his own henchmen. This was based on testimony given at a Coroner's inquest that Sam Peller and Ben Jacobs, two of the men rounded in the machine gun assault, were seen to fire pistols pointblank at Weiss.

HORNSBY AT FUNERAL OF MOTHER IN TEXAS

To Avoid Crowd at Austin, Cardinals' Manager Leaves Train Half Mile From Station.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 12.—A world's champion was just a home-town boy who had lost his dearest friend when Rogers Hornsby this afternoon buried his mother.

In the home of his aunt, Mrs. Knox Johnson, where his mother died just a few days before the world series started, Hornsby rested from the labors of the baseball battle.

Twenty-five years ago Rogers, clutching a baseball bat, stood at the bedside of his dying father. The father, Ed Hornsby, had bought the son the toys a few days before. The father then fell ill and sank rapidly. Rogers was playing in the yard with the ball and bat when his father took a turn for the worse. Mrs. Hornsby went into the yard and carried her father to the sick bed. He still clutched the playthings. The father died in a few hours.

Incident Told by Aunt.

This was one of the incidents in the life of the Cardinal manager related to the Associated Press today by his aunt, Mrs. H. C. Scheeler.

A grave in the little cemetery at Hornsby Bend, nine miles from Austin, had been prepared as the final resting place of the mother who lost her wish to see her son's team win the championship. Her second wish was that Rogers remain with his team until the end of the series and the Red Bird manager agreed to this on condition that funeral services should be deferred until he could return home.

She will rest beside her husband, her sons, Billy and Emory, and a child who died in infancy. Billy Hornsby was shot and killed two years ago in Fort Worth. His death contributed to Mrs. Hornsby's decline.

First Sandlot Baseball.

It was at Hornsby's Bend that Rogers spent his childhood and played his first sandlot baseball. Funeral services, conducted by the Rev. E. R. Minter, pastor of the First Southern Presbyterian church, will be held here at 3 o'clock.

Floral offerings from many sections of the country came from persons in widely varying stations of life. St. Louis barbers, tailors and shoe shiners were among those sending wreaths.

CORNERSTONE LAYING AT REBSTECK HALL

Last Trowel of Mortar Placed by Donor of Biology Building at Washington U.

By the Associated Press.

Before an assemblage of members of the faculty, visitors and students of the university, the cornerstone of the new Rebstock Hall of Biology at Washington University was laid yesterday afternoon.

The last trowel of mortar placed beneath the stone was leveled by Charles Rebstock, with a silver trowel presented to him by the university as a memento of the occasion. Last year Rebstock, an investment banker, donated $1,000,000 to the school, of which $300,000 was appropriated for the new building, the balance being retained as an endowment.

Chancellor Hadley presided at the ceremonies. In his introductory talk he complimented Rebstock on the public spirit he revealed in making the gift. "Others will tell you," he said, "of the importance of the science of biology which will be taught here and of the great service to humanity that this teaching will make possible."

No Denominational Bias.

"But I can say a word to you as to the high sense of duty with which my associates and myself will undertake the work which this gift makes possible. Washington University is privately endowed and can undertake only such work as public spirited men like Mr. Rebstock make it possible for us to do. But what work we do we try to do very well."

"We carry it on free from any bias or influence that would deflect us from the truth. We are a free university. No official or denominational supervision limits our service."

DANCER DEFENDS BOOK ON HER LOVE AFFAIRS

La Belle Otero Says She Bared Her Soul and Gloried in It.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

PARIS, Oct. 12.—La Belle Otero, once the most adulated danseuse of Europe, had many interesting love affairs and recently dared to relate them with unprecedented frankness in a book of memoirs. So many persons professed to be shocked that a woman's organization, the Women's Tribune, gave her opportunity to defend herself at a meeting in the official hall of the Ninth Ward.

Blushing no more than she did in the days of her triumph when she danced with as little as possible veiling her loveliness, the Spanish dancer proclaimed she had "bared her soul and gloried in it."

"I have been adored, loved," she said. "Why blame me for telling it? The truth is more beautiful than beautiful women."

At this moment an elderly man clambered onto the stage and enthusiastically exclaimed: "You are right, O Belle Otero!" He compared her to Jean Jacques Rousseau and her book to Rousseau's "Confessions." La Otero accepted the compliment with a gracious smile, although there is a cynical report that she bent over and asked a friend: "Who is this Jean Jacques?"

But now another masculine admirer came to the defense of the dancer's book. Referring to a chapter telling how at a certain dinner party she appeared as the piece de resistance, unadorned on a silver dish, he cried with conviction: "It must have been magnificent!"

"You're really, it wasn't so bad," admitted La Belle Otero, modestly lowering her lashes over coal black eyes.

The feminine portion of the audience, however, did not prove so tolerant. One indignant woman, brandishing an umbrella, shouted: "Your book does nothing but mask turpitudes!"

Others clapped noisy approval of this condemnation. The hall was in an uproar, and La Otero seemed uncertain whether to weep or flee from the stage when the woman presiding discreetly decided to declare the meeting ended without putting the question at issue to a vote.

purposes or retards our efforts to ascertain the truth. We accept no dogma that is not supported by facts and we refuse to permit interpreters of the literature of a non-scientific age to tell us what we shall and what we shall not believe."

Praises Donor's Generosity.

Other talks were made by Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden and professor of Botany, and Dr. Caswell Grave, professor of zoology, who traced the development of their sciences at the university and outlined their expectation of the growth of the department of biology with the aid of the new facilities made available by the building and endowment.

W. Frank Carter spoke of Rebstock's career and praised him for his generosity. Responding, Rebstock said that no other act in his life had given him so much satisfaction.

Alex on the Stage Would Just as Soon Face Ruth

Veteran Pitcher Appears at One Movie House And Bottomley and Southworth at Another, All Scoring Hits.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

Three members of the world champion Cardinals came to bat for the first time yesterday in the theatrical league.

Alexander the Great, who came to the plate at the Ambassador Theater, got to first base nicely with his audience, and his teammates, "Sunny Jim" Bottomley and Billy Southworth, who played at the Missouri, also were credited with hits.

The veteran pitcher made his first appearance at the 3 o'clock show yesterday afternoon. It was not exactly a histrionic triumph, but after his performance in the National League pennant race and the world series Alex does not have to work to please an audience. Whatever he had to say yesterday was caught only by the front rows.

Would as Soon Pitch to Ruth.

Anyhow, the man who introduced him, asked him if he would like the orchestra to play something and Alex replied that he would. His selection was "Sweet Rosie O'Grady."

The orchestra leader had to admit he had left his music home or wherever he keeps it.

After Alex had given the fans in the audience a good chance to look him over and had made a few remarks audible only to those in the front seats he waved and departed in a thunder of applause.

"I'd just as soon pitch to Ruth or Meusel with the bases full," he remarked afterward, mopping his brow in the wings. "What time is that next show, anyhow?"

Bottomley and Southworth were introduced quite unexpectedly to Missouri Theater audiences just as they were demanding an encore of the Negro team of Sisnie and Blake.

Sisnie's speech of introduction was drowned out as "Sunny Jim," a tall, broad-shouldered young man, came on the stage, bowed easily to the shouting audience and took his place, with perfect poise, next to the Negro team of Sisnie and Blake.

Blake's speech of introduction was drowned out as "Sunny Jim," a tall, broad-shouldered young man, came on the stage, bowed easily to the shouting audience and took his place, with perfect poise, next to the Negro team of Sisnie and Blake.

Bottomley was the first to talk. Standing at the footlights with his hands clasped behind his back, he looked down at the buttons of his dark double-breasted coat and began the story of the pluck of his teammate, "Chick" Hafey, the Cardinal left fielder, who with one eye affected by sinus trouble and one leg crippled by a collision with Taylor Douthitt, stayed in the game to the last.

"I hope you'll all remember him," Bottomley concluded. "He's going to the hospital tomorrow for an operation or two and I want you all to know what kind of a fellow he is."

As Bottomley concluded, Southworth came to the footlights and thanked the fans for their support. Their act concluded with Sisnie and Blake singing their praises in an impromptu song, another trying ordeal which they weathered perfectly.

Introduced to Senator Reed.

After the last show the players appeared at the annual dinner of the Advertising Club at Hotel Chase and there were introduced to Senator Reed, the speaker of the evening, who had expressed a desire to meet them.

"I think you're the greatest pitcher in baseball," Reed told Alexander as they shook hands. "And you two fellows are the best in the business at first base and in the outfield. You occupy today a position of greater prominence than any political leader, just as the world series occupied more of the public's attention than any political problem."

The players told Reed they thought he was a great Senator, too, and there were promises made of an exchange of autographed photographs between Alexander and Reed.

The shower of gifts upon the Cardinals continued yesterday. Having received all manner of presents, from hats and wrist watches down to apples, they got radio sets yesterday afternoon.

Wire from Secretary of War.

Telegrams of congratulation continued, too. One of them was from Secretary of War Davis, a St. Louisan. "Heartiest congratulations to Rogers Hornsby and the Cardinals on their wonderful victory," it read. "St. Louisans all over the country are proud of their splendid record."

Some of the rash batters who agreed to roll peanuts, wheel fat men in wheelbarrows or perform other freak stunts, should the Cardinals win, paid off their wagers yesterday.

During the afternoon Charley Barrett, the Cardinals' scout, was guest of honor at a luncheon at Hotel Jefferson at which a diamond studded watch was presented to him for his part in building up the team.

Hafey underwent an operation for relief of sinus infection at St. Luke's Hospital today. The operation revealed that the sinus infection so affected Hafey's vision that he had played the whole world series practically with the use of only one eye. He will remain in the hospital four or five days.

MATES LOST IN CRASH, SURVIVING PAIR WEDS

Widow and Brother-in-Law Married After Crossing Tragedy of June 13.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

Melvin J. Hamble, 37 years old and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ella Horn, 31, surviving members of a family of six, four of whom were killed when a Missouri-Pacific passenger train struck an automobile at the Wilmington avenue crossing, 6000 south, last June 13, were married at St. Engelbert's Catholic Church yesterday.

The accident occurred when a touring car occupied by Mrs. Horn, her husband, Clem D., 36 years old; Hamble's wife, Josephine, 33, a sister of Mrs. Horn; the Hamble's 8-year-old daughter, Margaret Mary; and Mrs. Margaret Burke, 55 years old, the mother of the two women, was struck by a south-bound Bonnet Terre local train. Mrs. Burke was killed outright, and Mrs. Hamble and Margaret Mary Hamble died the same day. Mrs. Horn, who suffered a fractured skull, fractured ribs, and a crushed arm, was at first thought to have been fatally injured, but was able to leave St. Anthony's Hospital a month later.

Hamble and Horn ran a filling station together at 4239 Lee avenue, Hamble remaining at the station on the day of the accident. They also owned jointly the flat which the families occupied at 4873 Kosuth avenue. Mrs. Burke making her home with the Horns in the lower apartment.

Following the accident, Hamble declared he never would enter his home again, but he later changed his mind, employing a housekeeper. When Mrs. Horn had recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital Hamble took her home.

"It was lonely downstairs," Mrs. Hamble explained today, "terribly lonely. I have not fully recovered from the effects of my injuries and loneliness and brooding did not help much."

"It was mighty lonely upstairs, too," Hamble declared. "It just wasn't home, and, besides, Mrs. Horn and I were partners in the filling station and in the ownership of the house, so I guess it was just natural that we should turn to each other."

Eight Killed, 50 Hurt in Week.

SAN PABLO, Brazil, Oct. 12.—Eight persons were killed and more than 50 injured when a passenger train crashed into a freight train near Villa Anastacio. A mistake in signaling is said to have caused the accident. Most of the victims were workmen.

FORMER GUARD OFFICER DIES

Col. Ben H. Dorcy Also Served Many Years in Regular Army. Col. Ben H. Dorcy, formerly Adjutant of the First Infantry, Missouri National Guard, died at his home in Barnes City, Cal., Monday.

Dorcy campaigned with Gen. Lawton against Ceronimo and saw service in Cuba and the Philippines while in the regular army, from which he was retired in 1907 for injury suffered in line of duty. Later he was connected with a military academy at Mexico, Mo., and with the Missouri National Guard from 1914 to 1918. At his request, he was restored to the army's active list in 1918 and remained in the army until after the World War. He was expert in heraldry and designed many of the regimental coats of arms now in army use.

MAN WHO SHOT FORMER U. S. DRY AGENT ACQUITTED

Louis H. Gatter Has Recovered From Wounds Inflicted by L. E. Wulfert, Roadhouse Proprietor.

JURY ACCEPTS PLEA OF SELF-DEFENSE

Payments on $6660 Note Given by Accused Figure in Case—Two Men Fled After Shooting.

Lorance E. Wulfert, roadhouse proprietor, who shot Louis H. Gatter, former Federal prohibition agent, on April 26 last, was tried in Judge Landwehr's court yesterday for assault to kill, and acquitted on a plea of self-defense by a jury which deliberated 15 minutes.

Gatter, now recovered from serious bullet wounds in the neck and shoulder, testified that he pursued Wulfert's machine and crowded it to the curb at Morganford and Beethoven avenues, only to talk to Wulfert about payments on a $6660 note. Wulfert fired about five shots at him, although he was unarmed, Gatter declared.

Two Men Ran Away. In defense, Wulfert's attorney sought to show that Gatter was the aggressor. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Decker, 5618 Morganford road, said the first shot was fired by one of two men in the rear seat of Gatter's car, who ran away before police arrived. They asserted that Gatter called at their home after a preliminary hearing and asked that Mrs. Decker change her testimony. Detective Arthur Zepp declared that when he questioned the former dry agent at the scene, he said, "There was a holdup and I got shot." Clarence Cavitt of 4515 Morganford road, who also saw the two men run away, said he thought one had a revolver.

Tells of Loans to Wulfert. Gatter named two men who he said were with him, but declared he had not seen them for a month. He had loaned Wulfert various sums at various times and the debts had been absorbed into one note and a chattel mortgage on fixtures at Lakewood Inn, on Gravois road, operated by Wulfert, he related. He was questioned about his 15 months' career as a dry agent, beginning in 1922, and said he was now connected with the General Specialties Co., engaged in "development work in chemical formulas."

Wulfert did not discuss the note, which he declared last spring he was forced to sign. He merely testified that his lawyer had advised him to stop paying. Last month in Judge Calhoun's court he lost a suit to cancel the obligation.

FRENCH DIAMOND THIEVES SAID TO HAVE FLED COUNTRY

Police Believe Daring Gang Motored From Chateau at Chantilly to Calais.

By the Associated Press. CHANTILLY, France, Oct. 13.—The theft of the famous rose diamond, "The Grande Conde," valued at more than $2,000,000, and other articles of value from the chateau of the Duc d'Aumale has traced France more than any other crime since Leonardo da Vinci's famous Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre in 1910. The perpetrators were still at large today.

Police believe, however, they have a clue pointing to one of the band of at least four thieves. One suspect was released from prison 18 months ago. He formerly resided in Chantilly and is known to be connected with one of the most skilled gangs of burglars in France.

Police believe the thieves motored from Chantilly to Calais in time to catch a boat before the general alarm announcing the burglary reached the seaports.

When the Mona Lisa was taken from the Louvre a wide search was made throughout the world. It finally was found in 1913 in Portofino, Italy. An Italian named Peretti was arrested, tried for the theft and sentenced for one year and 15 days. The painting was returned to the Louvre.

Jugo-Slavian Cabinet Resigns. By the Associated Press. BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 13.—The Jugo-Slavian Cabinet under Oukounovitch resigned today. The Foreign Minister, Dr. Ninichitch, may be the new premier. The resignation is understood to be due to indiscreet statements made by the minister of education, Stefan Raditch, on the occasion of the visit of a group of Czech-Slovakian deputies to Zagreb. King Alexander is said to have summoned former Premier Pachitch from Dalmatia for a conference.

TELLS OF VISITING ROCK THAT MOSES SMOTE FOR WATER

Dr. William T. Ellis, Writer, Says That He Located Springs in Valley of Sinai Peninsula.

DROVE OVER STONY WILDERNESS TO ROCK

Declares Place Coincides With Specifications in Old Testament Story of Israelites' Wanderings.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—A vivid picture of travel in the wilderness of Sinai, where the children of Israel wandered for 40 years, and the details of his visit to the site of Kadesh-Barnea, where Moses struck water from the rock have been given to the Associated Press at his home in Swarthmore by Dr. William T. Ellis, traveler and writer.

Dr. Ellis said he had not set out for Kadesh-Barnea, or any other side.

"Mrs. Ellis and I were spending 10 months of intensive travel over the entire area of Bible lands, a feat never before performed, in order to write a book," he said yesterday. "We had done the Bible scenes of Italy, Greece, Turkey and most of Palestine."

"Because mid-Sinai bulks so large in the Old Testament we had to go there also. Our objective was Ain Kadeis, which appears upon all Biblical maps and in all Bible dictionaries as the site of Kadesh-Barnea."

"It will fix the site of Kadesh-Barnea, the pivotal place of Israel's desert experiences whence the 12 spies were sent northward into Canaan, where Miriam died, and where Moses struck the rock and produced a flow of water for the thirsty and complaining children of Israel. If I say it is at the ancient crossroads of Mid-Sinai, in the center of the peninsula, and right at the present border between Palestine and Egypt."

"Ain Kadeis is on the Egyptian side of the line and Ain Guderat is on the Palestine side of the line. The two valleys or wadis are only about 25 miles apart."

Valley Carpeted With Stones. "We drove our car for an hour from Kassala through the wilderness of Paran. After we had penetrated well into the Wadi of Valley of Ain Kadeis we proceeded afoot. The valley was carpeted with big stones. The most feasible trail over them showed the stones polished to a path by the feet of uncounted centuries of camels."

"Although we saw numerous ancient cairns and stone circles, the place was manifestly impossible as Israel's camping site and when at an elevation of 1550 feet we got to the head of the valley or wadi, we found the famous spring which is really a well, under a cliff, although the water also seeps from below it at two or three points a few hundred feet distant. A single stunted fig tree grows by the water."

"One thing was clear in our minds: the maps, the books and the ancient tradition are wrong; this site could never have been Kadesh-Barnea. Scholars had been misled by the similarity of sounds between Kadesh and Kadeis. Yes, if the Bible is true there must be somewhere in the vicinity the camping place of the host of Israel under Moses. So we inquired of the soldier of the Egyptian frontier's post at Kassala concerning the existence of a valley with a good spring and a fertile, level ground. They answered 'Ain Guderat'."

"The word Ain is Arabic for Spring. The word Guderat is Arabic for Valley Entered by Gorge."

"One reason why the Bible students, who in the past have adventured into Central Sinai have missed Ain Guderat is that it is entered by a gorge, a natural defense, which conceals the fertility beyond."

"Wadi Ain Guderat lies, roughly, northeast by southwest, with bare mountains of wind-etched chalk and limestone on both sides, dotted by black nodules of flint. This valley is about two miles long from the entrance to the spring."

"It was a contrast to the bleakness of Southern Palestine and of Sinai. A stream flowed through it, sometimes showing pools and cascades. Grass was abundant and patches of Bedouin cultivation were seen all along the way. Flocks of sheep and goats commingled and pastured by the stream. Tamarisk trees were abundant and I counted six large acacia or shittim (thorn) trees with foliage like delicate ferns. This is the wood of which the Ark of the Covenant was made."

Water Straight From Rock. "Near the head of the valley are two springs. Examination showed that the water came straight out of the living rock at the side of the valley. We learned from the Arabs that this not only is the most bountiful supply of water in Central Sinai, but the only one that is water from the rock. At this is not the fountain which just flowed from the rock at the blow of the rod of Moses, 3800 years ago when the original upper spring of the valley proved inadequate for the multitude's needs, at least it perfectly fulfills all the specifications."

MOND ASSAULTS GLOOMY DEAN FOR 'FOOLISH PRONOUNCEMENT'
Such Talk Does Britain Incalculable Harm in America, He Declares.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publications Co., Inc., New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 13.—"Gloomy" Dean Inge of St. Paul's was criticized yesterday by Sir Alfred Mond, just returned from the United States, who said the Dean's "extraordinary and foolish pronouncements" were "most harmful in America, where they are featured in the newspapers."
"It is almost intolerable," continued Sir Alfred, "that a man experienced neither in finance nor commerce, should be allowed to hinder the efforts we are making to keep our end up. Fortunately, better instructed men in New York know the European situation, but when you think that American opinion generally is convinced of the decadence of Europe and sure of its own overwhelming financial superiority it seems almost criminal for an Englishman to help justify this opinion."

"I was told by Americans," Sir Alfred continued, "that British publicists whining about the debt payment are destroying the great impression we created when we offered to pay up, which has been of incalculable value to British credit."

C. of C. Nominating Committee.
The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce elected W.
Frank Carter, former president of the chamber, as chairman of the nominating committee to prepare the ballot for the annual election of officers to take place Nov. 16.
Other members serving on the committee are Charles H. Morrill, Charles H. Headbrink, Louis M.
Hall, A. M. Lewis, T. J. Barkins.

SETTLE IRISH RELIEF FUND

Association Formed to Administer
Balance of More than $500,000.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1926.

DUBLIN, Oct. 13.—Announcement is made of the final winding up of the Irish White Cross fund.
American generosity during Ireland's struggle for independence provided a large fund for relief of sufferers from the civil war. Under American direction it alleviated much misery, without involving recipients in the conflict.

When peace was made the association still had more than $500,000 on hand. An association incorporated to distribute this fund is composed of representatives of every section. It has invited applications before Nov. 1, from persons genuinely in need of assistance.

Of the more than $500,000 available, $300,000 has been appropriated to provide for widows and dependents of persons executed or killed in action or dying as a result of the hostilities, and $150,000 for persons in distress as a result of imprisonment since February, 1922, by the northern government.
A fund of $50,000 has been set aside for refunds to people who have paid back earlier advances from the fund and who now merit free grants. A fund of $15,000 will go to children in want as a result of the war.

ARGENTINES HIT BY BET TAX

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 29.—
Some time ago the Argentine Government placed a prohibitive tax on river steamers which were carrying hundreds of Argentines across the river to the gambling casino at Colonia, Uruguay, where many thousands of Argentine pesos were left behind. Deprived of this trade, the casino closed its doors.

Finding themselves without this source of easy revenue, the authorities of the country of Colonia retaliated by putting a tax of 6 cents on every ton of sand exported, and that tax has now been increased to

DISMISS MISCONDUCT CHARGES

Wife Fails to Appear Against Marion Hawkins and Sadie Brewer.
Marion Hawkins, 33 years old, a filling station proprietor of Bell, Mo., and Miss Sadie Brewer, 30, 4665 McPherson avenue, who had been accused of misconduct by Hawkins' 50-year-old wife, Dorothy, were discharged by Judge Gayer yesterday, in the Court of Criminal Correction, when Mrs. Hawkins, the prosecuting witness, failed to appear.

Hawkins, a former street car motorman in St. Louis, last July married Mrs. Hawkins, who owned a filling station and garage at Bell. She trailed her husband to St. Louis Sept. 18, and went with police to the McPherson avenue address, where she found him with Miss Brewer. Warrants charging misconduct were later issued.

PROPOSES TO WIPE OUT NEW YORK'S SLUMS

Philanthropist Leads Movement for $100,000,000 Annually to Replace Tenements.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A vision of a lower East Side without slums, and their "breeding places of disease, vice and crime" wiped from the map, is moving toward realization in the minds of philanthropists, architects, and city officials.

August Heckscher, philanthropist, who was appointed by Mayor Walker to study European methods of housing in congested districts, is the leading spirit in the movement. By the fulfillment of tentative plans, which he announced today and which constitute one of the most ambitious housing programs ever projected in this country, thousands of modern well-ventilated and sun-lighted apartment houses would spring up in the places of squalid tenement houses that now line the dingy streets for miles and in which live approximately 1,000,000 persons.

The "magic wand" by which it is hoped to bring about the transformation, will be $100,000,000 annually which the leaders of the movement expect to raise from public-spirited citizens, the city and the State. With this sum available annually, these leaders believe the tenements could be eliminated and replaced by modern apartment buildings within 10 or 15 years. Prominent persons already have given assurance of their aid, Heckscher reported.

Advocates London Plan.

Termining the slums of New York and other great American cities a disgrace to these cities and to the nation, Heckscher pointed out that progress has left little impress on the Lower East Side. There is one area, of little more than a square mile, where more than 400,000 persons live. One group of tenements were condemned in 1885 as unfit for habitation, but they are still occupied.

The progress made by London, Berlin and Hamburg in coping with their slum problems was cited by Heckscher. He advocated adoption of the London plan, the State buying the tenement property and providing dispossessed tenants with temporary quarters while new houses are being built. He whole purpose of the plan is to provide working people with good homes at reasonable rentals.

Rents Based on Incomes.

Heckscher would assess rents on a percentage basis, according to the income of the family, this being the system followed in London. The houses, under the tentative plans, would be five stories high and of the "walk-up" type, but if self-operating elevators now being tried in Berlin should prove feasible, the houses could be built 10 stories high.

Drastic legislation would be necessary to pave the way for the reconstruction movement. Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who is himself a product of the East Side, is, in the opinion of Heckscher, "the only man who can put these laws on the statute books."

Heckscher said it was his aim to get 500 wealthy and public-spirited citizens of New York to contribute $100,000 annually for five years, as a nucleus for the entire fund necessary. Then he expects to get the city and State jointly to contribute a similar sum over the same period.

This would provide $100,000,000 a year for five years, and, once this far toward accomplishment of the task, Heckscher is confident the entire job could be completed in 10 or 15 years.

HALL-MILLS CASE DETECTIVE LOSES EXTRADITION FIGHT

Court Refuses to Hold Felix di Martini from New Jersey Authorities.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A writ of habeas corpus staying the extradition of Felix di Martini, private detective connected with the Hall-Mills murder case, was refused in Brooklyn Supreme Court today, as a result, di Martini will be taken to New Jersey as requested by special Prosecutor Simpson.

Di Martini was retained as a private detective for Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall during the investigation four years ago of the murders of Mrs. Hall's husband, the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills. Mrs. Hall, her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, and her cousin, Henry de la Bruyere Carpenter, are charged with the murders at Somerville, N. J.

SECRECY IN RADIO CLAIMED

Officer of U. S. Marines Reports Tests Are Successful.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 13.—Development of a radio system for naval communication which eliminates the danger of enemy interception of signals and which may have value in commercial work was announced here today by Maj. Francis E. Pierce, radio officer of the United States Marine Corps. Tests have demonstrated, he said, that a device invented by him is capable of transmitting radio signals in such a manner that they can be intercepted over intervening spaces between the sender and the receiver. In a test off the Southern California Coast, between vessels of the United States fleet, a ship transmitted radio signals to a sister ship while a vessel which steamed between the two was unable to pick up a signal. Discovery of the ricocheting or "bent" wave was made while Pierce was making short wave tests.

NEW HOME DEDICATED BY ENGINEERS' CLUB

Linell Boulevard Property and Rebuilding Cost $50,000—Housewarming Friday Night.

The Engineers' Club, having solved the engineering problems involved in transforming a residence mansion into a modern clubhouse, opened its new home, 4363 Linell boulevard, with dedicatory ceremonies last night.

It is new as to the interior, though since it was the Nugent residence, free expert service of residence was furnished in transactions. The interior, and the only forming the interior, and the only cost was for labor and materials. On the first floor, library and reception room, where the transformation has been more radical, there is an auditorium with 300 seats, made by tearing out four bedrooms and annexing a corridor. This auditorium was the chief engineering problem of the house. The seats are removable, so that the room can be used for dancing. A parlor is also on the second floor, and the third floor is divided between billiard and card rooms.

Speakers at the opening ceremony were J. D. Robertson, president of the club; J. L. Hamilton, Philip Scanlan, Carl F. G. Meyer, T. R. Akin, John C. Hall, E. A. T. R. Akin, S. Langsdorf, Arthur Thacher and the Rev. Dwight Bradley. The vice-presidents are W. W. Horner and R. D. Hall, secretary, S. Sammelman, who is in charge of the club premises, and treasurer, W. O. Pennell.

A reception and tea will be given this afternoon for wives of members. Friday night there will be a housewarming dance, for which many invitations have been sent out.

The Engineers' Club of St. Louis was organized in 1865, and Capt. James B. Eads, builder of Eads Bridge, and Henry Flad, later first president of the Board of Public Improvements under the Charter of 1874, were charter members. Flad being the first president. The club met in rented quarters for several years, then removed to the Academy of Science, 3817 Olive street, where the meetings have been held since. About $50,000 was expended in the purchase and alteration of the Linell boulevard property.

SHIPBUILDING STILL FALLS OFF

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A continued steady decrease in shipbuilding is reported by Lloyd's Register of Shipping. During the quarter ending Sept. 30, last, shipbuilding aggregated only 1,850,000 gross tons of merchant vessels, a drop of more than $50,000 tons as compared with the corresponding period a year ago. This, Lloyd's said, makes an unbroken series of decreases since June 16, 1924, when the total shipping under construction was 2,616,000 tons. The present figures also represent a decline of nearly 1,313,000 gross tons from the prewar status.

The decrease during the last quarter has been general throughout all maritime nations except Holland. Sharp decline in construction is shown in Great Britain and Ireland, where suspension of work has been ordered on 107,498 gross tons contracted for, reducing the total construction actively under way in those countries to 667,000 tons. In the United States, with construction of 119,723 tons under way, a gain is shown over a year ago, when only 79,900 tons was being constructed. The expansion in Holland has advanced that country's standing as a maritime power from fifth to third place, superseding both France and Germany, which are now fourth and fifth respectively. Great Britain and Ireland still hold first place, followed by Italy. The United States still holds sixth place, but now is only 8000 tons behind Germany.

RED CROSS SENDS $10,000 FOR BEARSTOWN FLOOD RELIEF

Telegram Asking for Aid is Signed by Mayor and Other Prominent Persons.

An appeal for funds to relieve suffering at Bearstown, Ill., and vicinity following the flood there was received yesterday by the St. Louis Red Cross. A telegram, signed by M. H. Harris, Mayor of Bearstown; Roy H. Earm, chairman of the Red Cross there, and R. B. Glenn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, asked for relief funds and said that although the people of Bearstown had intended to finance their own problem the situation had grown too serious for local effort.

"In making the appeal the city of Bearstown wishes its neighbors to realize that relief was never sought until we saw clearly that without assistance many of our people would confront suffering," the telegram said.

The Red Cross has already contributed $10,000. This and any additional funds will be used not only in Bearstown, but in the surrounding country.

Robber Takes $49 in Drug Store.
A man with a revolver walked into the York drug store at 4301 Easton avenue at 8:30 p. m. yesterday and made the clerk, Elmer Mann, lie on the floor behind the prescription counter. As he was looting the cash register of $49.22, a customer walked in. The customer was forced to lie on the floor alongside Mann and the looting continued, after which the robber ran out and disappeared.

RUDOLPH STECHER, FORMER BREWER, DIES

Funeral of Friend of Late Adolphus Busch at Murphysboro Tomorrow.

The funeral of Rudolph Stecher, former business associate and personal friend of the late Adolphus Busch, will be at 9 a. m. tomorrow from his home in Murphysboro, Ill., to the Catholic Church there. Interment will be in Murphysboro Catholic Cemetery.

Mr. Stecher died at his home Monday night of Bright's disease, after a lengthy illness. He was 76 years old.

Born in Baden, Germany, he came to the United States at the age of 17 and located in St. Louis in 1872. He organized a cooperative company, which was later absorbed by Anheuser-Busch. Following the merger, he was associated for 20 years with Adolphus Busch. About 35 years ago he went to Murphysboro and since that time had been president and principal owner of a brewery there. He is believed to have left an estate of more than $300,000.

Mr. Stecher was frequently host to groups of St. Louisans at his Murphysboro home. Former Mayor Kiel was a frequent visitor and close friend.

The 1925 Murphysboro tornado damaged Stecher's properties approximately $100,000. He gave considerable financial assistance in the rehabilitation of the city.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Frank Herman, Mrs. George Childers and Mrs. Louise Post of Murphysboro; Mrs. Pauline Meyer of St. Louis and Mrs. August Gieske of Chicago, and one son, Irvin Stecher of Murphysboro.

SWITCHMAN CRUSHED TO DEATH

Guy H. Roff, 40 years old, of 1827 Hickory street, a Terminal Railroad switchman, was killed at 1:30 a. m. today while coupling cars in the Compton avenue coach yards. His head was crushed between two couplings. It is presumed Roff slipped while making the coupling and fell between the cars as they came together.

FAMILY OF THREE FOUND DEAD

Farmer Believed to Have Shot Wife, Daughter and Himself.

By the Associated Press.
BARRE, Vt., Oct. 13.—A triple shooting that wiped out a family of three in a lonely farmhouse, Sunday night, was discovered yesterday. The dead are P. Russell Morrison, 28-year-old farmer, his wife and 6-year-old daughter, Joyce. The police expressed the belief that Morrison, in a sudden fit of insanity, shot his wife and daughter, and then ended his own life.

The authorities said Morrison had an attack of infantile paralysis two years ago and that he had brooded over his inability to perform the farm work.

UNION LEADERS TELL OF PLIGHT OF BRITISH LABOR

Losses Due to General Strike Make It Impossible to Give Much Aid to Miners.

By the Associated Press.
MARGATE, England, Oct. 13.—Leaders of British trade unionism have frankly admitted that they were so busy on the problems caused within their own industries by the general strike last May that they had little material aid to give the miners in their long struggle with the operators.

Many of the leaders attending the conference of the Labor Party here yesterday told of suffering and impoverishment brought on by the workers by the general strike which was intended to help the miners and thereby frustrate what was regarded as a general attack on wages by the employing class. They told of unemployment, underemployment and financial losses which will take years to recover.

The occasion was the sixtieth birthday of Former Premier MacDonald and the conference accorded him vociferous congratulations. Then came disclosures of the condition of the workers in many of the largest British unions, unveiling a display of bitter feelings directed especially against J. H. Thomas, leader of the Railwaymen's Union, who had difficulty in gaining a hearing.

With almost brutal frankness Thomas told the conference that the coal miners were pursuing a chimera if they supposed that the railwaymen were in a position to help them by a levy of funds or by refusing to handle coal and freight.

45,000 Railwaymen Idle.
He said the railroad workers were unable to meet the levy assigned them, as 45,000 of them have not returned to work since May 1, and 200,000 are working only three days a week.

Ben Tillett, secretary of the Transport Workers' Union, revealed that the union had spent £1,000,000 ($5,000,000) in the interest of the miners and was now £500,000 pounds in debt.

Some of the left wing at the conference made speeches in which they indulged in rather strong language about the lukewarmness of union leaders and of the parliamentary labor party.

MacDonald tried to pour oil on the troubled waters by declaring that what the miners wanted was moral as well as material help and especially good counsel. He deprecated what he described as so many useless and violent speeches.

Government Denounced.
A resolution finally was adopted applauding the miners' "magnificent resistance" and denouncing the Government's "abject surrender" to the mine owners. The resolution declared that the only solution of the problem was nationalization of the mines.

In moving the resolution, Rhys Davies declared that the eight-hour bill as passed recently by Parliament was a death blow to the Washington convention on working hours.

Meanwhile the situation in the mine dispute remains unchanged, but thousands of men daily are resuming work. The safety men's union yesterday reaffirmed its refusal to endanger the mines by the withdrawal of its members.

J. W. GLEED OF KANSAS DIES WHEN RESTING IN HOSPITAL

Was Counsel for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; Prominent in Educational Work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 13.—James Willis Gleed, general counsel for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and widely known in Kansas educational circles, died last night at the Topeka hospital where he had gone Saturday for a rest. Death was attributed to heart ailment.

Mr. Gleed was born at Morrisville, Vt., March 8, 1850, and came to Kansas in 1866. With his brother, the late Charles S. Gleed who died in 1920, he formed a law firm at Topeka which had been counsel for the telephone interest 21 years. Only last Friday Mr. Gleed spoke at the memorial exercises for Prof. W. H. Carruth at the University of Kansas. The following day he went to the hospital.

His condition was not such as to cause anxiety but last night his nurse found Mr. Gleed dead.

PUBLIC HEARING ON OLIVE STREET WIDENING ORDINANCE

Meeting to Be Held Next Wednesday to Hear Objections to Giving Street Cars Strip in Center.

The Streets Committee of the Board of Aldermen today designated next Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, as the time for a public hearing on a bill authorizing the reconstruction and widening of Olive street, from Twelfth boulevard to Channing avenue, with a 32-foot strip in the center for the exclusive use of street cars.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks and the Board of Public Service have approved the bill, but the Bond Issue Supervisory Committee and the Olive Street Improvement Association, composed of abutting property owners, oppose the bill on account of the exclusive rights it provides for the street railway company. What they want is an open thoroughfare, with motorists and others having unrestricted right of way. It is to settle this point that the public hearing is to be held.

Drops 2000 Feet in Air Pocket.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—After dropping 2000 feet in a natural vacuum, Lieut. Wyatt of the Navy's Alaskan aviation survey is convinced that climbing mountains by airplane isn't as easy as it looks. Seeking a close-up picture of the top of Mount Fairweather, 15,480 feet high, he shoved his machine up through violently bumpy air until he reached an altitude of 14,400 feet. There, he ran into an air pocket so large that his plane dropped to the 12,500-foot level before its wings took hold again.

AMERICANS RESCUED FROM BESIEGED CITY

All Other Foreigners in Sianfu Taken Out Except Missionaries Wishing to Remain.

By the Associated Press.
 PEKIN, Oct. 13.—An authoritative dispatch received here today from Sianfu, capital of Shensi Province, announced that, through the good offices of Tapan Liu Chen-Hua, military ruler of the province, all foreigners detained there have been brought safely out of the city except the Rev. C. J. Jensen and his wife and a number of Roman Catholic missionaries, who elected to remain.

There were 51 foreigners in Sianfu.
 They had been detained there by the remnants of the Kuomintang, or National Army, which was chased into the province from Pekin some months ago by allied forces. The Kuomintang were holding the city against an attack by the provincial forces of Gen.
 Liu.

Half of the foreigners released are Americans. The prisoners had been in a sad plight because of hardships endured. The American Legation recently appealed to Liu to safeguard the lives of the Americans, and he replied that he desired to do this, but that Sianfu was occupied by "bandits." Later the Legation, acting under instructions from the State Department, ordered two military attaches to Sianfu to aid in the rescue of the Americans.

Looters Executed in Streets of Wuchang—Two Generals Captured.

By the Associated Press.
 HANKOW, Oct. 13.—Execution in the streets of Wuchang of some Northern soldiers charged with looting marked the assumption of control by the Cantonese Red forces who had besieged the city more than 40 days.

The defending Northern troops are either prisoners today or are fleeing disorganized, many of them in disguise as civilians.

Gen. Liu Yu Chun, who directed the defense of the city and Chen Kia-Mu, former military Governor of Hupeh Province, are prisoners.

The former probably will be tried by courtmartial. It is believed neither will be executed.

Lieu Yu Chan sought safety under the American flag, hiding in the home of Dr. A. M. Sherman, principal of the Central China University. A servant betrayed him. Chen Kia Mu was captured while endeavoring to escape disguised as a coolie.

Seeking hidden soldiers of the capitulated Northern troops, the victorious Cantonese searched all mission buildings and the foreign quarters. These places, however, were not looted, and no harm befell foreigners.

Ending of the siege has permitted food supplies to reach Wu Chang.

"What Has Made Me Look So Bad?"

AS SHE WAS

AS SHE IS

"I CAN'T understand what makes me look so bad," she wrote. "I am a buyer for an exclusive Avenue Shop and I simply must look my best all the time. About a year ago I commenced to feel weak and tired—my skin became 'sallow' and dark circles appeared under my eyes—I've tried facials and diet, tried exercise in the open air—have even tried sleeping 10 hours a day and yet I continue to feel sick and look worse every day. Can't you tell me what has made me look so bad?"

changes in the blood vessels, the liver, kidneys, the brain and body tissues. It often causes headaches, aching limbs, loss of physical vigor, constipation, intestinal gas, abdominal pains, depression, dizziness, pallor, pasty complexion, skin eruptions and even premature old age. Ordinary treatment with drugs, medicines, laxatives, etc., only seemed to aggravate this condition to such an extent that science was reconciled, until recently, to assume that there was no real way to correct Intestinal Putrefaction.

Fortunately, the discovery of "the great" Pasteur of France indicated a simple and easy way to triumph over harmful germs and disease. With his discovery came the successful anti-toxins and more recently the Moyer's Intestinal Putrefaction Antitoxin—Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets—which destroy the intestinal germs of decay and thus banish Intestinal Putrefaction. Easy and economical to take with either ordinary milk or water and results are quick. One cannot take too many of these beneficial genuine R. Acidophilus health tablets, as they simply destroy the harmful and dangerous germs of putrefaction and leave you feeling like you'd taken a "new lease on life."

AS A TEST Just try taking two Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets after every meal and at bedtime, regularly, for four short weeks. If you don't look and feel 100% better—if you haven't more strength, "pep" and energy we will gladly refund your money upon request, without a single question. There is nothing like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get the genuine Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets at all good druggists.

SUPREME COURT OPENS NEW TERM

353 Cases on Docket, of Which 107 Are Criminal Appeals.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 13.—The October term of State Supreme Court opened yesterday with 353 cases on the dockets of the two divisions and the court in banc, including the heaviest criminal docket in Division No. 2 in the history of the court.

The docket for division No. 2, comprising three judges and two commissioners shows 107 criminal cases and 70 civil cases for the October term and the January call of that term, beginning Jan. 3. The number of criminal case appeals to the court has been increasing steadily in recent years, but heretofore, the total has never reached 100 for one term of court, according to court records. Criminal appeals are handled by Division No. 2, which also hears some civil cases. The 107 criminal appeals now on the docket probably will be increased by additional cases to be placed at the foot of the docket for the January call.

St. Louis Revenues Affected. Division No. 1, comprising four judges and two commissioners, has 40 civil cases docketed for the October term and 95 civil cases docketed for the January call. This division handles civil cases only.

Court in banc made up of the seven judges from the two divisions has 40 cases docketed for the term beginning Nov. 4. The docket of court in banc for the January call has not been made up.

The revenues of the city of St. Louis will be affected to a considerable extent by six cases docketed for the opening day of court in banc, involving contested assessments by the St. Louis assessor and Board of Equalization. One of these questions the right of the city to levy an assessment upon the bills receivable of a corporation.

Insurance Concerns Sue.

In several other cases insurance companies are attacking the action of the Assessor and Board of Equalization in assessing their reserves deposited with the State Insurance Department, contrary to a State law permitting deduction of such reserves. The city has contended this law is unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court last week handed down a decision in one test case, quashing an assessment by the City upon the reserves of an insurance company which were deposited with the State Insurance Department, but did not pass upon the constitutionality of the law, because the constitutional question had not been properly raised in the case. The court merely ruled the law exempting such reserves still was on the statute books and in effect and had not been repealed by implication by other legislation as was contended by the city. The City has raised the constitutional question in other cases, still pending.

Medical College Ouster Up.

Another case on the court in banc docket is an ouster suit against the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons, charging misuse of charter privileges and alleged trafficking in medical diplomas. A constitutional case was decided last June, when the Supreme Court revoked the charter of the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery.

Two State antitrust cases against 19 St. Louis plumbing companies charging restraint of trade and price fixing and against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and three other oil companies, involving price fixing and illegal trade combination charges, are on the docket of court in banc, but will be continued. As has been noted, virtually no evidence has been taken in either suit and the Attorney-General will be unable to proceed until after the next Legislature convenes, because his appropriation for carrying on antitrust suits is exhausted.

BEER FOUND IN RAID ON HOME

City and Federal Officers Seize Home Brew and Liquor.

City detectives and Federal prohibition enforcement agents raided the home of Herman Schluter, of 1403 South Vandeventer avenue, at 4:30 p. m. yesterday on information that the place was a home brew joint.

A Federal search warrant was used. In the place between the basement and the attic on different floors police report finding 25 gallons of moonshine whiskey, 160 bottles of beer on ice and 150 not on ice. In the attic 1650 pint bottles of beer; 72 quart; 60 gallon crocks; 25 cases of empty bottles, pints, and 100 empty bottles, quart, and a 50-gallon barrel of malt syrup were found. Schluter was arrested.

CHILD, 2, SCALDED WITH COFFEE

Baby in Mother's Arms Spills Two Cups on Sister.

Marian Adelsberger, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Tillie Adelsberger, of 330 Victor street, was seriously scalded on the face, neck and arms at 7 p. m. yesterday when two cups of hot coffee were spilled from a table at the home.

Police reported Mrs. Adelsberger was holding her 6 months' old daughter, Ruth, on her lap while eating, and Marian was playing beside the table when Ruth caught the table cloth and in jerking it upset the coffee on Marian. Marian was taken to City Hospital.

Boys Turn In False Alarm. Investigation of a false fire alarm, turned in from the box in front of 1115 North Euclid avenue, at 5 p. m. yesterday, resulted in the arrest of two 8-year-old boys, who admitted they had pulled the lever to see what would happen.

You may have sound teeth and yet have Pyorrhea

THE fact that your teeth are white and sound is no guaranty that Pyorrhea with its ravages is not about to set in. Thousands suffer from Pyorrhea needlessly when this knowledge of The Danger Line might have prevented!

The truth is that Pyorrhea can easily be prevented by proper methods of oral hygiene. The reason for this is simple. Pyorrhea frequently begins as an acid irritation of the delicate gum edges along the line where they meet the teeth—The Danger Line. If these gum edges are kept healthy—clean and free from mouth acids—there is little danger of Pyorrhea or of any other gum diseases.

Squibb's Dental Cream, made with more than fifty per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, helps to prevent Pyorrhea as nothing else can. It reaches into all of the tiny crevices around each tooth at the gum margin, neutralizing the acids that cause irritation, and at the same time soothes the tender gums. The Milk of Magnesia contained in Squibb's Dental Cream also reaches into these crevices and fissures on and between the teeth, preventing acid decay.

So the people who use Squibb's Dental Cream usually have healthy mouths.

At drug stores everywhere. Only 40 cents a tube.

LEGION CHOOSES PARIS
FOR 1927 CONVENTION

Meeting to Be Held Sept. 19 to Sept. 23 — Business Session in New York Oct. 18.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—The American Legion convention voted today to hold the 1927 convention in Paris, France. The pilgrimage will be known as the "Second A. E. F." The convention will meet Sept. 19 and continue until Sept. 23. When the delegates return to the United States, they will convene in New York Oct. 18 and transact such business as comes before it.

There was little opposition to the proposition. When the committee on time and place submitted its report recommending Paris, a Montana delegate moved that the vote on the recommendation be delayed 24 hours to give delegates an opportunity to discuss the question. The motion was lost on a viva voce vote and when a roll call was demanded it was again defeated overwhelmingly.

The recommendation was then adopted with few dissenting voices. The delegates cheered the action. The New York meeting is necessary to make legally effective all action taken in France because the American Legion constitution provides that conventions must be held on American soil. National Commander McQuigg congratulated the delegates on their action and said the pilgrimage to France should be made the greatest of its kind in the history of the world.

Need at the present time of an all-pervading faith in the essential honesty of men was stressed in a message sent today by William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, to the American Legion's convention.

"The American Legion has a very special place in the memories of all citizens," he wrote, "because it calls to mind a great national emergency and the splendid response of our citizenry in manifold service. The lasting lesson of that terrible experience is to my mind the necessity of considering all our problems with the belief that a solution can be found through the combined wisdom, experience and good will of all concerned."

"What there is need of at the present time is an all-pervading faith in the essential honesty and squareness of men and the will to find ways of dealing with common problems that confront the judgment of those concerned."

Should Help End Lawlessness.

Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania told the convention today that the organization should take an active part in eliminating lawlessness of all kinds in the United States. The American Legion, the Senator said, could not live upon its past alone, but must also live on its present and future.

Reed complimented the legion for its stand against eliminating law as a method of warfare. "The argument that it is better to blow a man to bits with T. N. T. than to temporarily put him out of combat is all rubbish," he said.

The Pennsylvania Senator appealed to the Legion to stand against two things. One was the slacker, who fails to vote. The other was the lack of law enforcement, and he urged the legionnaires to campaign against corruption and disorder.

The convention proceedings were halted while the delegates greeted Sir Walter H. Cowan, second in command of the British navy and commander of the South Sea fleet. He arrived at South Philadelphia on the cruiser Calcutta on Monday, and visited the convention with his staff.

Sergeant Alvin York of Tennessee, introduced to the convention by National Commander John R. McQuigg as the "outstanding soldier of the war," addressed the delegates. He told them about the school in which he was interested in the Tennessee mountains.

Swedish Botanist at 80 Goes Alone to Tibetan Mountains.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 12.—Sweden's botanists have always fostered botanical science and have won world-wide fame. One of the most distinguished of them is the vicar, J. Enander, whose specialty is the genus willow.

In 1922 Dr. Enander found some rarities in Yellowstone Park and in that year he planted 20 Scandinavian willow species in Arnold Arboretum in Boston. Two years later he sought willows through an unexplored area in Siberia.

Dr. Enander is now in Asia obtaining some hybrids from Tibet in order to complete his willow garden. Though he is 80 years of age, he is making his expedition to the Tibetan Mountains alone.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE IS END OF ELOPEMENT

Paul Burgoldt Jr. Given a Year for Nonsupport—Left Bride After 10 Days.

A romance which began with a chance meeting at the Greater St. Louis Exposition, a little more than a month ago, resulting in a midnight elopement to Greenville, Ill., ended in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday when Judge Miller sentenced the 20-year-old husband to a year in the Workhouse for nonsupport. An appeal was taken.

Paul Burgoldt Jr., 20 years old, the husband, a graduate of St. Louis University, is an automobile salesman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burgoldt of 3305 Magnolia avenue. His wife, formerly Miss Helen Virginia Henslee, also 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Henslee, of 730 Leland avenue, University City. She was a member of the Municipal Opera chorus last summer and later, for five days, in the chorus in the Greater St. Louis Exposition revue. Their meeting at the exposition, after previous acquaintance, it was explained in court, led to their elopement to Greenville, where they were married by a Justice of the Peace at 1 a. m., Sept. 8. Young Burgoldt said he was intoxicated at the time. His mother testified that he showed the effects of liquor when he returned home that day.

Ten days later Burgoldt left his bride and they both returned to their parents' homes. Mrs. Burgoldt Jr. and her parents testified that he contributed nothing to her support. Mrs. Burgoldt Sr. related that she suggested they live apart for six months, until her son reached the age of 21.

Burgoldt has sued to have the marriage annulled and his wife has sued for divorce.

ORDER TO PRODUCE $27,000 IN ASSETS IS DISMISSED

Referee in Bankruptcy Approves Petition of Trustee of Defunct National Embroidery Co.

A petition, ordering Louis Bloom, president of the defunct National Embroidery Co., 905 Washington avenue, to show cause why he should not produce $27,000 in assets, was dismissed by Referee Coles yesterday. The petition was filed by Orville Livingston, trustee of the company's estate.

Bloom's concern failed a year ago with assets of $30,000 and liabilities of $35,000. Bloom later was arrested on a Federal warrant, charging concealment of assets. At the hearing to show cause, Ben F. Hargrove, investigator for the National Association of Retail Credit Men, testified he made an audit of Bloom's books following bankruptcy and found that $17,454 in collections was unaccounted for in the concern's books. Hargrove said he also found that $3950 had been spent for money orders within a few weeks prior to bankruptcy.

SUES FOR SHARE IN PROFITS

J. G. Barrett Alleges Kansas City Man Kept His Sales Commissions.

Alleging he is entitled to one-half of the commissions on sales which were made of a suction sweeper in three-fourths of Missouri and East St. Louis, J. G. Barrett today filed suit in Circuit Court against F. M. Rhed for an accounting.

The petition states that the plaintiff was district manager in this city of the Hoover Suction Sweeper Co., and the defendant was division manager, with headquarters in Kansas City, and under an oral agreement they were to divide the commission on sales, their commissions being at the rate of 5 per cent. Between July 5, 1918, and July 1, 1925, embracing the life of the agreement, the sales of the sweeper in this territory amounted to $1,126,608.77, for which the company paid to Rhed $56,330.48, but he has not accounted to Barrett for his share, the latter alleges.

Rare Books on Art in Russia.

Spotted in the Post Dispatch, Sept. 28.—Now that the books on art have been collected and arranged at the Hermitage Museum in Petrograd the library contains over 150,000 volumes in all European languages. Many of the books are of great value, some being old prints, and others single specimens of which no other copy exists. The Hermitage library undoubtedly contains the largest and most important collection of art books in the world of Europe. Moscow is soon also to have an interesting library. The widow of Prof. Metchnikow, the celebrated Russian scholar, who worked for years at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, has just arrived in Moscow with many scientific objects and the valuable library of her late husband. A Metchnikow Museum is to be built which will contain all these articles of interest.

BAPTISTS ARE TOLD THEY AID COLLEGE TEACHING EVOLUTION

Minnesota Conference Asked to Withdraw Church Support from Carleton, at Northfield.
By the Associated Press
ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 13.—Charging that the majority of the faculty members of Carleton College, at Northfield, Minn., teach the theory of evolution, contrary to the belief of the Baptist Church, a resolution demanding withdrawal of church support was offered at the annual Minnesota Baptist conference, in session here.

Dr. W. B. Riley, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Minneapolis, submitted the resolution which was referred to the executive board of the church for a report next year. The resolution declares that Carleton, through its present administration, "is no longer an orthodox institution, but is rankly liberal."

CUT IN COAL RATE TO ST. LOUIS FROM ILLINOIS SOUGHT

Same Tariff Asked as Ordered for East Side Last February by Commerce Body of That State.

DIFFERENCE 8 TO 11 CENTS A TON

I. C. at Hearing Here Opposes Reduction and Mine Operators Fight to Retain Present Charge.

A hearing before a special examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission to determine the equity of present freight rates for hauling coal from Illinois mines to St. Louis and East St. Louis was resumed today at Hotel Jefferson with representatives of the City of St. Louis, the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, civic organizations, the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, the Illinois Coal and Traffic Bureau, coal operators and railroad companies in attendance. It began yesterday with an attack by the Illinois Central Railroad on the decision last February of the Illinois Commerce Commission ordering reductions of from 11 to 21 cents a ton for coal hauled from Illinois mines to East St. Louis.

As the Illinois Commerce Commission has no jurisdiction over interstate rates, the rate to St. Louis has remained the same, increasing the differential to St. Louis, as compared with East St. Louis, from a previous arbitrary differential of 25 cents a ton to from 32 to 46 cents a ton.

Want St. Louis Rates Reduced. The hearing is being held as the result of an appeal by the railroads to the Interstate Commerce Commission from the decision of the State commission ordering rates lowered. The City of St. Louis, the Chamber of Commerce and several other organizations filed intervening petitions with the Interstate Commerce Commission, seeking to have coal rates to St. Louis lowered to decrease the differential to 25 cents. The coal operators are seeking to have the present rates to East St. Louis remain in effect and have the rates to St. Louis reduced proportionately.

In attempting to obtain a restoration of the old freight rates of 91 cents to East St. Louis from the entire Group 2 district, which embraces all mines within 30 miles of East St. Louis, attorneys for the Illinois Central Railroad introduced exhibits showing that the revenue of the railroads would have been reduced $417,913 in 1925 had the Illinois Commerce Commission's rate-reduction order been in effect. An idea of the importance of the hearing to St. Louis was given when the railroad introduced further exhibits showing that similar reductions to St. Louis in 1925 would have decreased the revenue of the railroads $571,913.01.

The two estimates were based on a survey compiled by C. W. Galligan of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois Freight Association. The survey shows that 7,031,698 tons of bituminous coal were shipped to St. Louis and East St. Louis in 1925. Of this amount, 4,093,867 tons came to St. Louis and 2,937,831 tons to East St. Louis.

$571,913 Saving to St. Louis. On the basis of these exhibits it can be seen that St. Louis coal consumers would save $571,913.01 annually if rates to St. Louis were reduced to correspond to those ordered for East St. Louis by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The other witnesses yesterday as R. B. DeCamp of Chicago, assistant traffic manager of the Illinois Central. He reviewed the history of coal rates in this territory for the last 40 years in an attempt to show that the most recent order of the Illinois Commerce Commission would work an undue hardship on the carriers.

DeCamp said that the 25-cent differential between St. Louis and East St. Louis is equitable. He declared that present rates to St. Louis are fair, while those to East St. Louis are too low.

The examiner hearing the evidence is Arthur Kettler. At the conclusion of the hearing, he will make a report to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which will then take action.

Harry Slater, rate expert of the Illinois Commerce Commission, is attending the hearing. The Illinois Commission about two years ago ordered reductions similar to those now in controversy, and the order was sustained by Circuit Judge Crow at Belleville.

The carriers appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court and the decision of Judge Crow was reversed. The carriers appealed directly to the Interstate Commerce Commission when the State Commission ordered the reductions a second time.

CHEERS AND JEERS FOR CITY-COUNTY MERGER SPEAKERS

Street Meetings in Wellston Conducted by Advocates of Proposal Invaded by Group of Rowdies.

NEED OF POLICE PROTECTION CITED

Demonstration Serves to Solidify Part of Crowd Favoring Plan to Be Voted on Oct. 26.

Rowdism by hecklers at a street corner meeting in support of the city-county merger. In Wellston last night served to solidify the large part of the crowd which agreed with the merger speakers. The gathering, at Easton and Glen avenues, was under auspices of the County and Wellston Association Leagues and the Greater St. Louis Committee. More than 200 were present in spite of an intermittent drizzle of rain. The crowd was summoned by bombs fired from a truck bearing big signs in support of the plan, to be voted on Oct. 26, and by a bell vigorously operated. A few men of the opposition made a vain effort to stop the truck, while others held aloft banners demanding "Defeat Annexation." Meanwhile workers on both sides of the issue circulated pamphlets in the crowd.

It was reported there that some banners of Tony Foley, the ex-convict whose gambling establishment was operating across the street from the meeting place, were among those creating the disturbance, which at times drowned out speakers' voices. Joseph Forshaw, president of the County Annexation League, presiding, answered the argument of some of the opposition banners about saving county schools from annexation. He was interrupted repeatedly, and the disturbance became louder when he introduced Thomas H. Cannon, an attorney of the law, but men and women in sympathy with merger ridiculed the rowdies.

"Every bootlegger in St. Louis County is against annexation," Cannon declared amidst an uproar of jeers and cheers. "Every bank robber in the county is against it. Every pickpocket is against it. There is no protection of citizens. Some county peace officers are just as crooked."

Wellston has experienced several bank robberies and some of the residents of this populous, unincorporated district have complained bitterly about bootlegging and gambling and general lack of law enforcement. Advantages to County Cited. The crowd was quieter when J. O. Barker, who was a member of the Board of Freeholders, told of the advantages of municipal government here and stressed the fact that a considerable part of the $17,000,000 city bond issue is being spent in the county, including the $12,000,000 Missouri River waterworks.

"We have a fine fire department across that boundary line," he said. "Have you that protection here?" "No," many of his listeners shouted back. "And no water pressure if we had a fire department," one man said. Many of those present moved later to a pro-merger meeting in Central School, Wellston, attended by more than 150 persons. There, Samuel Rosenfeld, chairman of the Greater St. Louis Committee, who was a bystander at the street corner gathering, asked the audience to ponder what interests and what selves were behind the noisy opposition which sought to deny free speech. Continuing, he told of the community of interest of city and county and declared that city services would be extended to the county. Arguments used now about high taxation and ruination of schools were the same ones used against expansion of St. Louis in the past and proved false then, he asserted.

Questions as to Taxes. "When you've paid your county taxes, what do you get for them?" he demanded. "Nothing," cried men and women in chorus. "What does Wellston get?" he went on. "Tony Foley," the audience shouted. "The idea that the city is going to do injury to the people of the county," he concluded, "is a figment of the imagination conceived for carrying the private purpose of some person or persons."

Cannon, addressing the school meeting, said: "Every person in some unlawful occupation in the county is against annexation. Some of the opponents have lawful occupation but they are deceived in this matter; those unlawful occupations are not saved. Every man in the county

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

George Sisler, Hero of 1922.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, disposes of the services of George Sisler, they might as well hang a crepe on Sportsman's Park. They had as few as 150 people out to see some of the last games of the season, due to the position occupied by the team. That was no fault of that Michigan marvel, who tolled to put them somewhere.

As I see it, Phil Ball is at fault for not giving him a capable assistant and more money to spend for a few better ball players. The Cardinals won the pennant with good, consistent pitching, which is the backbone of any club. The Browns did not get that pitching. Instead of trying to reward the marvelous George with giving him help, it now comes out that he is being disposed of as manager of the St. Louis American League Club.

If that is what you call gratitude, I am through. I believe there are a good many Brown rooters who feel the same way about this great player as I. While it is true he has been trouble for the last few years, together with the worries of his club owner to incapable assistants, it is only fair to assume that he would be back to normal again if part of his many duties were taken over. I venture to say he will be batting in the neighborhood of .350 and fielding with the best of them next year.

In conclusion, let me again say, that if George Sisler leaves the St. Louis Browns, I, as a life long rooter of the Browns, will automatically become a Cardinal rooter over night.

To Honor Hornsby.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
NO man has given St. Louis so much advertising as Rogers Hornsby, and I suggest that it would be a lasting acknowledgment of our debt to him to call the new Olive street parkway "Hornsby Drive."

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

Naming Public Schools.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I NOTE that bids are being called for the erection of a new public school building which is to be known as the Melville L. Wilkinson School. With the completion of this school, we shall have the R. M. Scruggs School, the Elias Michael School, the William Stix School and perhaps a few years later the Famous-Barr or Grand Leader School. I, of course, have no desire to be altogether jocular on this subject, nor do I wish for an instant to detract from the sterling business qualities of these departed merchant princes whose memories have been honored by naming for them one of our magnificent schools.

What I would like to know, however, is this: who selects the names for our public schools and why is it that they select for them the names of business men? As I have previously stated these men were possessed of sterling business qualities and achieved great success in the business world, the fruits of which accrued mostly to the benefit of themselves and their families.

It would seem therefore, that more appropriate names could very easily be obtained for our schools, the names of patriots, educators, philanthropists or others who spent their lives for a more pittance in the interest of others. The late president Wilson sacrificed his life for this country, why therefore should not this new school be called the Woodrow Wilson School.

Notes From Chicago.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
AS a former resident of St. Louis for 25 years, I want to say hurrah for the Cardinals! They have given the city a boost. I am delighted they won.

I saw a picture of your bear pits in Forest Park, on the screen here a week ago, and a lady in back of me said, "They must let those bears run loose in St. Louis. I don't see any bars." Chicago could well take notice of those splendid pits.

Negroes in East and West Ends.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I READ an article in your paper pertaining to housing conditions among Negroes. Mr. E. H. Snyder, the writer of that article, attempts to suggest something which will not aid the Negroes as a whole, but will, on the other hand, attempt to prove the superiority of the West End Negro. Others have obtained better all around conditions (not through the benevolence of others) but through the sacrifice and steps necessary to obtain better results. I suggest that the writer of the above mentioned article spend some time in the east end of the city and become better acquainted with all classes of Negroes, the results obtained from the understanding that will naturally accrue from such association will in time solve the problem.

Don't blame the other fellow; it won't work. If the Negro ever lives in security in the West End it will only when he learns to shake hands with the Negro.

SENATOR REED AND PROHIBITION.

Not much is left of prohibition when Senator James A. Reed of Missouri gets down with it. The revelation in the Senate inquiry that more than 10,000,000 persons are commercially engaged in the violation of the law is one thing to read it in a Washington dispatch and something else when it is warmed by the wrath of the man who compelled Gen. Andrews to make this startling admission.

It is unfortunate that Senator Reed, who spoke in St. Louis last night, cannot be heard by every man and woman in the country. If he could be, we might realize the folly of what we are trying to do, go back to temperance, and hope to restore all law to its former estate. We cannot do these things because, instead of hearing the truth, most of us are being misled by people who do not want us to know the truth.

What a mess it is! Here we are in open revolt against a law the people do not want, a revolt which has by this time lessened our respect for all law. In addition to the 10,000,000 persons engaged in making and handling liquor commercially, there is a still in every other home and the coasts are infested by smugglers. Only one thing could keep a sensible people from moving in such an extremity and correcting the mistake they made. We are prevented from so doing by the horde of reformers and moralists who, with Wayne B. Wheeler at their head, have found in prohibition what they never had before—that is, a meal ticket.

Drive those people, for the most part a band of worm-eaten evangelists and self-constituted censors of public morals, away from the fleshpots and we can save ourselves. Put their bread and butter above the law and the welfare of the people, and we can do nothing but stew in our own ill-brewed juice.

THE MISSOURI PRIMARY VOTE.

The Post-Dispatch pointed out editorially yesterday that the New York Times' star political writer, Richard V. Oulahan, sent out to size up the present campaign situation in Missouri, fell into the error of stating that the State's senatorial candidates had no issue between them.

Mr. Oulahan was again led into making a misleading statement when he said: "The Republicans have a strong organization. Its power was demonstrated in the party senatorial primaries this year, when, for the first time, the Republicans had a primary registration double that of the Democrats."

The Democratic primary vote of Missouri, exclusive of the City of St. Louis, exceeded the Republican vote by 62,900. The total primary vote, including St. Louis, which is ordinarily a Republican stronghold, shows the meager difference of 9862 votes in favor of the Republicans. Therefore, instead of a 2-to-1 vote in favor of the Republicans, mathematics show that the entire State vote is only 10 to 9 in favor of the Republicans.

That even this slight difference exists is due to the heated internal primary fight, waged between the Koeln and Miller factions for political supremacy in St. Louis, which brought out an abnormally large Republican vote, including a host of anti-Miller Democrats.

THE GOLTRA CASE.

Victory in the Goltra case goes to the United States Government, as it should have done. The people of the Mississippi Valley, who are heartily sick of this bootless battle among lawyers, will hope now to see the disputed boats and barges put into commission and made to serve the needs of commerce.

Only a war, with its upsetting of human judgment, could have precipitated such an absurdity as the Goltra case. Here were four towboats and a fleet of barges built with the people's money. Goltra, formerly Democratic national committeeman in Missouri and an old college chum of Mr. Wilson, secured a contract to operate them. He was to carry coal to the north and bring back Minnesota iron to be made up at St. Louis into arms and munitions. The war ended before the craft were complete, but Goltra insisted upon possession under his war contract. The Federal barge line upon the Mississippi River needed the boats and barges for its growing business, and instead of getting them as it should it faced the prospect of competition with a private operator using Government boats!

It is said that Alexander drinks, but we trust that nobody who knows what the brand is would give our secret away to any of the other managers.

A NEW MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER.

Federated Farmers Fertilizer Company—what a full-flowing bit of euphonious alliteration, calculated to capture the farmer's fancy!

It is the corporate title applied to a new organization, which hopes to acquire a 50-year leasehold of Muscle Shoals, if the acquiescence of Congress can be secured at its next session. C. Bascom Slemph, former secretary to the President, says that a group of New York financiers and engineers will submit a bid for the property of $20,000,000 to $30,000,000—the latter figure depending upon the Government's building dam No. 3.

The most important part of this statement lies in the assertion that the company will guarantee to use the power generated for the manufacture of fertilizer nitrates. So far, Mr. Slemph has furnished only an oral outline of the plan to President Coolidge. No doubt, this will soon be followed by the detailed text of the proposed contract.

The primary purpose of the expensive Muscle Shoals development was for the production of nitrates. So far it has cost the Government $125,000,000. The capacity now available is 325,000 horsepower. Every previous offer for its use has been intended partially to divert the power away from the purposes for which it was constructed, i. e., cheap fertilizer for the farmer, during peace times, and nitrates for high explosives during war periods.

Cheap fertilizers would be a great boon to the American farmer. Each year, with decreasing fertility of the soil, his need for cheap fertilizer becomes more imperative. He cannot afford to buy nitrates at $50 a ton, so he, perforce, buys low-grade mixed fertilizers, much too low in nitrate content.

The war between opposing interests, the "power trust" and the "fertilizer trust," over this project should be scotched once for all in Washington. Muscle Shoals dams and power plants are practically ready to operate. If this present offer means what Mr. Slemph says it does, Congress should seriously consider it.

EUROPE AND THE LEAGUE.

It is a strange reversion that Europe should have greater faith in the League of Nations than we have. Yet it would seem to be so. Our own faith has sunk to the vanishing point. Nor are we greatly to blame for that. The League was predicated upon justice, and the victory of the allies was too emphatic for justice. We ourselves, by making their victory complete, unmade the ideal we took into the war.

But the League is there, and what we do not fully realize in this country is that all the Europeans, whether in or out of for or against, need it. The solid thought underlying surface conditions in Europe insists upon telling us this. It is no longer our League, but Europe's. It is no longer an American ideal; it is a European necessity. An Italian writer, Angelo Treves, is one of those who are telling us why this is so. After recounting the troubles of the League, the comings and goings, the quarrels and complaints, he says:

We do not know whether the League will survive these bickerings or they will prove fatal. We do not under-rate the forces hostile to the League. But let us face these forces frankly. The people are all for the League. The powerful influences that have rallied against the League, or, better said, against its conversion into a true League of Nations and a powerful instrument of international democracy, are something separate and distinct. It is by no means impossible that they will be able to destroy the League by inducing its more reactionary members to secede, or that they will succeed in making it a mere fiction, as it was when it was founded, hoping thus to maintain the hegemony of certain Powers which conceal their true objects behind masks of false holiness and humanitarianism. Such people would confine the League's work to excellent but relatively unimportant matters, like controlling the white-slave trade, helping war prisoners, and suppressing the traffic in narcotics. Naturally these enemies will be greatly strengthened if a considerable number of democrats and revolutionists join them in their campaign, scoffing at the League's ideals, exulting over its difficulties, and greeting with an "I told you so" every setback it receives.

On the other hand, powerful influences and interests are laboring to save the League and to make it an effective agency for bringing about the unity of at least Europe, if not the world. These influences are not abstract and ideal. They obey iron laws of necessity. Europe is dying of her discords, and she does not want to die. The war and its results may have made her a colony of American capitalism; but although a colony she still has a civilizing mission in the world which she cannot perform unless united. A Locarno of the West, a Locarno of the East, a Little and a Baltic Entente, are each nuclei of greater aggregations all of which gravitate to Geneva.

This, then, is what the League of Nations has become—not an ideal but a something to which a sinking civilization tenaciously clings. Certainly we can watch that spectacle with interest, whether we were ever interested or not in the vision of the man who gave his life for it.

THE PURSUIT OF TRUTH.

Prof. Paul M. Kammerer, a noted biologist, is said to have committed suicide because of the discovery that one of his experiments had been faked. Kammerer was rendered despondent by the disclosure, believing it had wrecked the work of his life and would dog him as long as he lived, though he claimed innocence and thought the imposture might have been committed by a certain assistant, who had died before the discovery of the fraud.

This incident indicates how seriously science and scientific men regard a departure from the truth. The pursuit of science is the pursuit of truth. Any departure from strict honesty and accuracy is a heinous offense. That, of course, is as it should be. Yet in what other profession or calling are the ethical standards so exalted and personal honor or placed as so high a premium as in the domain of science?

When the British Government threatened to quit coining the silver three penny, mass meetings protesting its action were held in Glasgow and Edinburgh. Now we know what the Scotch put in the basket at church.

There is some doubt that Harry Daugherty will be tried again, but why? The Republican party is running again, and it got what Harry did not get—that is a verdict of not guilty.

The Anti-Saloon League of Illinois had to choose between corruption and liquor, and the betting odds that it would choose corruption were 1 to 25, with no takers.

Judging by the number of men killed in the fight over it, Chicago's rum traffic must be about the best business in the country.

The man who is riding a horse from Buenos Aires to New York entirely meets our notion of having nothing to do.

MAKE THEM FEEL THE FULL MEASURE.

(From the Washington Post.)

A Cleveland man suggests that movie shows run a strip of film several times during each performance requesting patrons to refrain from talking. It is our guess that if the suggestion were followed, the talkers would read it out loud.

A New York writer finds the campaign in Missouri sluggish, which leads us to suppose someone has been throwing mud into the rush of issues.

Considering the amount which St. Louis fans won on the world's series, we submit that this is one city in a million.

George Bernard Shaw did not say he is slipping, and Italy has no bellicose intentions toward Turkey, so the world can once more breathe easier, assuming, of course, that the two reports interfered with respiration.

LITTLE DRAGON STEVIE.

(With apologies.)

Dragon D. C. Stephenson's gone to jail to stay.
So long as he has life in him—for murder he must pay;
One time all Indiana by the Dragon late was bossed,
But now his collar's gettin' hot; he says he's double-crossed,
An' all the other fellows, when the dirty work was done,
They ditched poor Mr. Stephenson, which wasn't any fun.
An' now he wants to tell us all the things he knows about,
An' the Dragon's gonna git 'em if they Don't Watch Out.

Onct' he was a mighty man, makin' lots o' kale,
But he was tried for murder, an' he had to go to jail;
His klieghe heard him holler, an' his klieghe heard him bawl,
But all the other fellows, seems they couldn't hear at all,
His klieghe got a letter through, an' gave it to the press,
An' fore this thing is over with, there'll be some hell, I guess.
The Dragon wants to tell the things he knows a lot about,
An' the Dragon's gonna git 'em if they Don't Watch Out.

The way the Dragon used to talk 'ud drag the suckers in,
The way they joined the Ku Klux Klan 'ud make a monkey grin;
An' onct' they had a meetin' an' an awful mob was there,
An' the dragon an' his klieghe descended from the air;
He had poor Indiana an' he had it hair an' hide,
But he was tried for murder, an' in jail he must abide,
Confinement must be tiresome, an' he wants to be about,
An' the Dragon's gonna git 'em if they Don't Watch Out.

MY, HOW SOUR THE GRAPES ARE!

St. Louis picked up the conile Alexander like a bargain in old clothes late in the summer, after every other National League club had waived the privilege of buying him. With his withered pitching arm he helped push the Cardinals into the league championship. Then in the world series, this nervous racking contest of which the slogan is "Youth will be served!" he won two of his foster-club's four victories and saved another.—Chicago Daily News.

LINES.

Liars should prune their memories. The crowd applauds censure and comedy and sneers at true wisdom. People who talk money, money, money—seldom have any. 'Tis an honor to be condemned by slanderers. A fool always thinks he's the onions. Flattery from some people is an insult to a person's intelligence. It's hell to have all these celebrations and no light wine and beer—openly. Life without love is like a furnace full of ice. Public opinion is like a flea. It jumps quick and often. A beautiful personality outshines a beautiful gown and somehow one without the other seems lost. Again history repeats itself—Alexander the Greater Than Ever conquered the world—in baseballdom. BONEHEAD.

Another motion picture actress finds that marriage interferes with her art—Capital A. Such conscious posing gives us a pain in our neck. The only resemblance we have been able to discover between art and motion pictures is that art is long, and most motion pictures are too long. If marriage interferes with motion pictures, we favor the abolition of the motion pictures. And in an effort to get rid of such ridiculous posing, we here and now declare that if ever we marry, marriage will not interfere with our art.

Henry Ford is opposed to the installment plan of buying when it is carried to excess. We presume the excess comes when anything but a filver is bought on the installment plan.

A picture exhibited in a London gallery is said to have taken the critics by the ears. A loud, gripping canvas we guess.

Queen Marie of Rumania has announced that Prince Nicholas cannot wed an American heiress. And we gladly supplement the announcement with the rash prophecy that he will not marry any American girl who is not an heiress.

Since Minnehaha Creek did a Volstead, the water for Minnehaha is supplied by pumps. One of the well-known forced "Ha-Ha's," as 'twere.

Vice-President Dawes is in favor of abolishing the direct primaries. Well, in Pennsylvania and Illinois the old convention system was more in keeping with Coolidge economy.

The Santa Catalina Island swim is said to be harder than the English Channel swim. It is also harder on the reading public, as there is no closed season in California.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by leading publicists, newspapermen and periodicals on the questions of the day.

ENTERTAINING A QUEEN.

From the Indianapolis News.

SOME of us are not going to have any relief from worry and conjecture until an official announcement is made concerning the visit of Queen Marie of Rumania to this country. There is some degree of comfort in a dispatch from Bucharest, saying the program she will follow in America is nearly completed "and a definite statement regarding her tour will be issued in the near future." Meanwhile, no one can tell whether to send the rugs to the queen or take it for granted that the queen will not be a guest. Entertaining the Queen of Wales rather gave Uncle Sam and his people experience in the business of royal etiquette. The King and Queen of the Belgians were gracious sovereigns and had any trouble to have round at all. This true as well of the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, our most recent royal visitors. The trouble with Marie—if there is to be any trouble—is that she is what we call a democratic aristocrat and that she is a woman who is not afraid to be a woman.

In those days, the blackest picture painted by the temperance cause was that of the father of the nation, exhibiting himself in a condition of bestiality to his wife and children.

"That picture was also true and true enough, but it was also true that such cases, the mother taught stopping at hotels, and expecting attention only from mayors and other local dignitaries. That makes it easy for the diplomat service, but rather hard on the mayor, some of whom have mislaid the keys to the city and hardly know how to begin an address of welcome to a sojourning queen. Marie knows her way round, and if there is any little slip probably will overlook it. She has the full value of public opinion having autographed an advertisement in which she testified to the worth of a cream made in this country and having syndicated in American newspapers a series of articles on court life. She is not a woman who is afraid to be a woman.

How long will she be in this country? We know politics in this country and if she comes as a visiting politician, her stay may not be so long.

MARRIAGE REFORM.

From the Terre Haute Tribune.

HERE now is a proposition for legislation, sponsored by a women's organization, compelling a man about to marry to prove his economic standing and his moral capacity first, and requiring a woman to show that she could support her husband and her children if her husband should die.

The man who marries ought to be able to support a family, and a widow with children on her hands who can take no position of independence which is well while. But why laws on the subject?

Such matters may fairly be left to the individual. No doubt a man ought to be a position of independence which is well while. But why laws on the subject?

Very good husband and father, though took financial chances when he married, could not measure up to some high standard of income. As for women, a number of them who are unable to support their own living if called upon to do so, comparatively small in these days.

MERIT BADGES GIVEN
TO 400 BOY SCOUTSPresentation Made at Scottish Rite Cathedral, Following Indian Pageant.

An Indian pageant, symbolic of the striving of Boy Scouts for the highest mental, moral and physical standards, was presented last night at the feature of a scout court of honor session at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Some of the boys wore 1000 merit badges for proficiency in various scouting activities. The court of honor convened to present the scouts with the awards they had won since spring. More than 1000 merit badges for proficiency in various scouting activities were awarded, nearly 100 of which were raised to the higher ranks of Eagle, Life or Star Scout. The boys were presented with the awards by the court of honor, which was composed of the following: F. M. Cabell, Troop Captain; J. H. Ehrhardt, 28; James R. Samuel, 28; Raymond Brigham, 52; Harold M. Stark, 60; Sam Weyland, 63; Richard Bush, 77; Dale Jones, 143; John Bowen, 150; Louis Echmitt, 178; Robert Phemster, Webster Groves; Joe Brownkyke, Webster Groves; Wilson Palmer, 178.

The merit badges were presented by Chester B. Curtis, the Star Scout, by Hermann Schwarz, and the Life badges by E. D. Nims.

Shert L. Morton, chairman of the scout committee on education, awarded certificates to 100 scouters who had taken a training course last spring. A film of the scout court of honor was presented by Chester B. Curtis, the Star Scout, by Hermann Schwarz, and the Life badges by E. D. Nims.

The exhibit will be held in the museum Oct. 28 to 30.

REED CALLS HALT
PROHIBITION EVILS

will go into the stomachs of the people. "If the old-time saloonkeeper put deadly poisons into his beer and sold it across the bar, would he have been justly tried for murder?" he asked.

"It is difficult to draw the line between that course of conduct and the one now being pursued by the federal government," he said.

"Kill 'Em Quick," the motto. "But some people say, 'If they don't drink contrary to law, let them drink.' It is a law of the heart of hell to want another man punished by death for taking a glass of whisky."

"The old-time temperance orator, who did good so long as he stuck to the poor drunkard, even though he violated the law, was not by the getting drunk. But now the poison squad is at work, good on by Wayne B. Wheeler, with the orders to 'Kill 'Em quick.'"

"I was taught, in my earlier days, that it was an act of dishonor to throw a law of the land; that I did not believe in the law, it was my business to obey it. In those days, the blackest picture painted by the temperance cause was that of the father of the nation, exhibiting himself in a condition of bestiality to his wife and children."

"That picture was also true and true enough, but it was also true that such cases, the mother taught stopping at hotels, and expecting attention only from mayors and other local dignitaries. That makes it easy for the diplomat service, but rather hard on the mayor, some of whom have mislaid the keys to the city and hardly know how to begin an address of welcome to a sojourning queen. Marie knows her way round, and if there is any little slip probably will overlook it. She has the full value of public opinion having autographed an advertisement in which she testified to the worth of a cream made in this country and having syndicated in American newspapers a series of articles on court life. She is not a woman who is afraid to be a woman."

How long will she be in this country? We know politics in this country and if she comes as a visiting politician, her stay may not be so long.

Indianapolis News.
Of us are not going to have any of the old-time saloonkeeper put deadly poisons into his beer and sold it across the bar, would have been justly tried for murder. It is a difficult task to draw the line between the course of conduct and the course of punishment. MEMORIAL TO COMMANDER OF
BATTLESHIP OREGON DEDICATED

Wilbur Reopens Old Navy Records to Pay Tribute to Rear Admiral Clark.

By the Associated Press.
BRADFORD, Vt., Oct. 13.—Old records of the Navy Department were reopened here by Secretary Wilbur to trace the sturdy patriotism that marked the life of Rear Admiral Charles Edgar Clark, under whose command the battleship Oregon surged over 15,000 miles in the battle of Santiago.

Wilbur delivered the principal address yesterday at the dedication of a memorial statue to Admiral Clark in the town of his birth. He recalled that the valor and determination which marked the battleship commander had appeared when a magazine exploded at the Mare Island Navy Yard in 1892, when 14 persons were killed and Commander Clark was among the first on the scene.

In his report, Commander Clark told of smoke rising from an adjoining house stored with all kinds of explosives. "I undertook to extinguish any fire inside with the other hose," he wrote. "Going inside, I was unable to discover any flame."

Yet the fire danger had been there, the Secretary said, and later charred boxes filled with great quantities of powder were removed from this magazine.

Wilbur also read two letters written by Admiral Clark to the Navy Department regarding rewards for the officers who served in the Spanish-American War. They showed that twice the Oregon's Captain had been forced to make momentous decisions on that voyage, once when he reached Rio de Janeiro and was left to decide whether he should remain there in safety or dare the chance of single-handed combat with the whole Spanish fleet. The letters were significant for what they omitted, Wilbur said.

"No claim is made for courage or skill, or of those qualities we here honor today," he added. "But only of his high sense of responsibility for decisions affecting not only his ship, but the welfare and success of his country."

HAWES REFERS TO WILLIAMS AS CHOICE OF K. K. K.

undisturbed. Williams at Cape Girardeau said just enough about Hawes to give the attack his back and it is doubtful that he will mention it again, leaving to Hyde the burden of going into minute details. Then, if Hawes answers, he will be answering Hyde and attention will be drawn from Williams.

Hawes' Mention of Williams. Last night Hawes referred to the endorsement of Williams by the Ku Klux Klan in the primary campaign, and charged that Williams was evading the real national issues and was seeking to lead voters to forget those issues by talking about incidents of a campaign 25 years ago.

"At last Senator Williams has disclosed the issue which is paramount in his mind," Hawes said. "It is an issue which the State should understand. It is just as clear as that older one of 'Who hit Billy Patterson?'"

"Immediately after the Governor's Senator had been endorsed in the primary by the Ku Klux Klan, he was driven in a panic to attend and speak before several colored meetings held towards the close of the primary. In these meetings, while avoiding the Klan issue, he painted a picture of his heroic conduct in the defense of colored voters in a Republican primary held 25 years ago. He exhibited a scratch which he said was secured in the defense of the colored voters' right to vote.

New Facts Coming Out. "Now the facts are coming out. In fact, every time I can make the Governor's Senator talk, some new facts come out.

"It seems that in a Republican primary held in the Twenty-eighth Ward, where there were no colored voters present and none prevented from voting, the Governor's Senator got into an altercation and a fight, he was injured at his failure to be nominated at that time for the position of State Senator. Somebody stopped him, or kicked him, or pulled his hair, and he bawled about it considerably.

"He attracted enough attention at the time to take him from the ranks and put him in the newspapers, and it ultimately resulted in his being a juvenile judge of the Juvenile Court.

"A quarter of a century has passed. All of my old associates on the Police Board, with the exception of Rolla Wells, are dead. Practically all of the actors of that day are dead and buried. A new generation has grown up. But it seems that this incident of what hit the Governor's Senator 25 years ago is to be made the leading issue. National questions are to be pushed into the background.

"When I ask the Governor's Senator whom he betrayed, his clients, the Merchants' Exchange, or the farmers' representatives, his answer is, 'Someone hit me 25 years ago.'

"When I ask him about his betrayal of President Coolidge in his pursuit of Reed votes, he answers, 'Someone kicked me 25 years ago.'

"When I ask him why he voted to table a resolution of inquiry into the primary scandals of Pennsylvania and Illinois, he answers, 'Someone pulled my nose 25 years ago.'

"When I ask him whether he is in favor of raising the present tariff rate, the highest in our history, now proposed by Senator Butler, the President's mouthpiece in the Senate, he answers, 'I was a hero in a fist-fight 25 years ago.'

Reply Always the Same. "When I ask him about the 200 bank failures and the delinquencies of the Baker administration, he replies by pointing to a scratch on his face, 'This is the answer: it took place 25 years ago.'

"When I try to draw him into a discussion of the looting of the Veterans' Bureau, of the looting of alien property, and other national scandals, his answer is, 'I had my hair pulled 25 years ago.'

"When he attacks my good roads record and tries to make political capital of his opposition to the road program, and I charge him with it, he answers that he was a hero in a Republican primary fight 25 years ago.

"There was great glory in this fight—it brought the Senator-by-appointment his first fame—but I am unable to understand what it had to do with the farm issue, the tariff, centralization of power, good roads, or the scandals of the State and national administrations."

5-STATE COTTON CONFERENCE FOR LONG-TERM POOL

It means the reduction of the purchasing power of the cotton states and will affect business all over the United States," he said in a telegram to the President. He also urged development of the Government properties at Muscle Shoals.

"Lower cost of production is essential," he added, "otherwise a large portion of our section will be compelled to abandon the production of cotton."

Senator Harris' telegram concluded. "Our farmers have not been so discouraged in a long time and the situation plainly warrants definite action of such character."

Conference to Discuss Crisis Meets in Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 12.—Southern leaders met here today to discuss means for profitable marketing of this year's cotton crop.

Assembled from every cotton growing State, farmers, bankers and merchants considered proposals for reducing cotton acreage to prevent a recurrence of the emergency.

Gov. Whitfield of Mississippi called the conference to order as temporary chairman. His invitation brought the delegates here.

BRENNAN PREDICTS 150,000 MAJORITY IN COOK COUNTY

Illinois Senatorial Candidate Confident of Victory
Even if Magill Were Not Running.

DENIES DEAL WITH CROWE REPUBLICANS

Asks "What's Wrong" With Insull Contribution — "These Fellows Give to Both Parties."

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—However gravely the Illinois campaign managers may debate the outcome of the election here there is one conspicuous figure who has no doubts. George E. Brennan, nailed to his hospital bed with a plaster cast on his good leg, is the sereneest candidate between the oceans.

He looks like a pallid Billiken with his head on the pillow, and the marks of pain are plain on his face as he talks straight up in the air, but his physical sufferings have not driven the smile from his lips. He discourses of majorities in Republican counties, the big lead he will start with in Chicago, the handicaps of his opponents and the attacks on himself with whimsical detachment as if the result were a problem of such simlicity that it is hardly worthy of serious discussion.

"They call me a boss," he said. "Well, I suppose I must admit having some political influence as head of an organization. I don't think anybody can point to anything I have done in that capacity that wasn't on the level, or that harmed anybody that didn't deserve it, or favored anybody that was not entitled to what he got."

"Prohibition the Main Issue." "George Brennan is not important in this campaign. What counts is what he stands for. Illinois is wet, and I happen to head a ticket where prohibition is the main issue. My friends and the people who believe as I do about the liquor situation will vote for me; my enemies and the Republican drags will vote against me."

"I'll lose some dry Democratic votes and will pick up many more wet Republican votes. I'll come out of Cook County with between 150,000 and 200,000 majority. I'll do well in McHenry County and the other counties contiguous to Chicago, though these sections are normally Republican. Why wouldn't I? They think on prohibition like the big city does."

"The same thing applies to the other centers of population like Peoria, Springfield and the Tri-City section. That's enough. The business element of my State is not afraid of me; I am one of them and they have done business with me for 40 years."

"The labor people know me. My opponent, Frank Smith, is unfortunate in having alienated a big group of them in his handling of the public utilities. So where is he going to get down the State a vote big enough to overcome what naturally comes to me?"

Republicans Split, Democrats United.

"But," I ask, "Roger Sullivan tried it a dozen years ago, and got what for those days was a big majority in Cook County—56,000, wasn't it?—and the women were not voting. Doesn't that intimate that being a political boss is a pretty big handicap for a man running for the United States Senate?"

"Perhaps," replied the stricken leader, "but you must not lose track of the fact that at that time the Democratic party of Illinois was split wide open. Carter Harrison and Mayor Dunne were both fighting him, all the Chicago newspapers were against him, and there wasn't any particular issue. At that they only beat Roger by 17,000 votes with a million votes cast. Now it is the other way about—the Republicans are split up and the Democrats are united."

"They say," was the next comment, "that you will not reap the advantage that might have come to you because of the revelations of the primary campaign funds, because you are tarred with the same stick as Mr. Smith. He got more than you, but Insull yielded $15,000 to you."

"Well, why shouldn't Sam Insull do that? What's wrong with it? Takes money to run campaigns and, of course, these fellows give to both parties."

"Where would they be if they indicated their partisanship by always giving to one party and not to the other, when the odds happened to become the ins? Any administration could annoy the life out of a big corporation, and not do anything unlawful. Many and many a time Fred Upham and I met in a man's office on the same mission of raising campaign funds and both came away with checks. "Insull Came to Me." "I didn't ask Insull for it; he came to me, and when I told him I didn't need it, he insisted and told me what he had given each of the Republican organizations and handed out the same for the whole of our party. I turned it over to the organization and I suppose it was used to get out the vote and such things. They didn't have to spend any of it to get the nomination for George Brennan because he didn't have any opposition. "Smith was chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, with almost the power of life and death over Insull's companies. I held no public office—that is the big difference apart from the size of the respective contributions. That episode is among the least of my troubles." "Will it not send a bunch of votes to the third candidate, Hugh Magill, that might otherwise have come to you?" "Possibly some votes, but what difference can it make? Magill is all right, and naturally I wish him well, but I would have been elected just the same if he had not come into it at all. I suppose that some of the old-line Republicans down the State who don't want Smith and who could not bring themselves to vote for a Democrat will find a refuge with Magill. If he gets

By the Associated Press.
SOUTHSHIELDS, England, Oct. 13.—Finger-rings have been barred from classes by the Southshields School authorities on the theory that adornment of this kind tends to distraction during lessons. Neither boys nor girls will be allowed to wear rings in school hours. The question was brought to a head when the education committee upheld a teacher who had taken a ring from a girl pupil who gazed constantly at her ring instead of attending to her lessons.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $1. Early prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiac, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Warren, Ind.

REED TO BAR VARE FROM SENATE, HARRISON SAYS

Mississippians Opens His Missouri Speaking Campaign in St. Louis.

United States Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, opening his Missouri campaign for the Democratic congressional ticket last night, told a large audience in Euclid Hall, Euclid and Natural Bridge avenues, that Senator Reed of Missouri would never permit Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois, the centers of recent campaign fund investigations, to be seated in the Senate.

This reference to Reed, and allusions to the possibility that the Missouri Senator might be a presidential candidate, brought enthusiastic applause. The meeting was particularly in the interest of John J. Cochran's campaign for Congress in the Eleventh District. Senator Harrison left for Southeast Missouri after the meeting to speak today and tonight in Charleston and Cape Girardeau.

The tariff and campaign fund scandals were the chief topics of Senator Harrison's speech. He predicted a Democratic majority in the next Congress, which would pass a tax reduction bill.

Predicts Hawes Victory.
He predicted the election of Harry B. Hawes as Senator and of Cochran to the House.

"Missouri must help clean up the corruption in high office," he said. "The whole country is looking to Missouri this year. You have men here toward whom the whole country has turned its eyes. Greater honors may come to this State, if your ranks are solid in November."

"The administration," he said, "is suffering from sleeping sickness. The Republicans are divided, the Democrats are united and militant."

Willie Also Speaks.
Former Senator X. P. Willie, former Representative W. L. Igou and Candidate Cochran also addressed the meeting.

Cochran and Igou, State Senator Hollingsworth of Mexico and other speakers will address the Eighth Ward Democratic organization at a meeting tomorrow night at 2201 North Market street.

A special service was held last night at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Miami and Ohio avenues, with the Rev. R. Jesse of Mount Calvary Lutheran Church, St. Louis, as the principal speaker.

ON TRIAL FOR GIRL'S DEATH
Cleveland Youth Accused of Feeding Sweetheart with Medicines.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 13.—Ermil Balenscu, 21 years old, went on trial today charged with having caused the death on Aug. 22 of Dorothy Elizabeth Kiek, his 22-year-old sweetheart. He fed her a conglomeration of medicines, it is charged. One of the State's exhibits is to be a half-bushel basket of remedies found in his home.

Defense attorneys contend he gave her no medicines that she did not request him to give her, and that anything which he did give her was offered with no thought but that it would help her. An autopsy disclosed that the girl's organs were filled with medicines which chemists declared caused her death. A grand jury voted an indictment of manslaughter.

WOMAN SWINDLED BY GYPSIES

Two Fortune Tellers Got $23 From Mrs. Anna Walkenhorst.

Mrs. Anna Walkenhorst, of 2549 Hebert street, was swindled of $23 at 1 p. m. yesterday by two gypsy women fortune tellers, who convinced her they possessed healing powers.

The women had Mrs. Walkenhorst hand them $22, which they said they would place under her pillow and say words that would cure her of an eye ailment. After they had left the house, Mrs. Walkenhorst discovered only sheets of ordinary paper under the pillow. The gypsies were arrested within an hour at Jefferson and St. Louis avenues. Both said they were with a camp at 3600 South Broadway.

The Love Thief

PRETTY, vivacious, and knowing too little of the world, it was only natural, perhaps, that Barbara's heart should beat a little quicker when she first met Norman Parish.

Parish was a stranger in Barbara's town—but his brown eyes laughed so frankly, and he seemed so perfect a gentleman, that there was not the faintest breath of suspicion that he was not everything he seemed to be.

To be sure, he told Barbara nothing about himself, except that he lived in New York, and had come West on an extended business trip. But Barbara's greater mistake was the unquestioning confidence, trust and love that she permitted to grow up in her heart.

Never before had she been so completely happy. Never had the sun shone so brightly, nor had the birds poured forth such a torrent of joyous song, as when she and Norman Parish were together—dancing, riding, or idling through the wooded hills on lazy summer afternoons.

And then one night, when he came to her in the moon-flooded garden where she awaited him, her heart near bursting with song, his slow step and the somber, wretched look in his eyes instantly told her that something was wrong.

But even then, until the hour of revelation, she did not dream of the terrible drama that was about to unfold, and in which, in the long, tear-filled days to follow, she was to play so tragic a part.

If Barbara could have been warned—if she could have had the slightest inkling of the heart-breaking events that were to grow out of her innocent and confiding devotion to this man of whom she really knew nothing, and who talked so winningly of love—she might have been saved the crushing remorse and bitter sorrow that were to darken her life for many years to come.

It is this story of the terrible price she paid for innocently trusting too far and believing too much, that Barbara has written, exactly as it happened, for the November issue of True Story Magazine. The story is complete, starting on page 31—and is only one of the 18 thrilling true-life narratives that appear in the November issue of this intensely interesting magazine.

You Will Like These Three Other True Story Magazines

In addition to True Story, you should read each month those three thrilling sister publications—"Dream World," "True Romances" and "True Experiences."

While each of these magazines has its own appeal, they are all filled with exactly the same kind of compellingly realistic stories that has made True Story a favorite with its millions of readers.

For your convenience, each of these four Macfadden Publications appears on the newsstands on a different date during the month, so that as you complete one magazine, you know that another one, just as thrilling, awaits you.

Watch for True Story on the 5th, Dream World on the 15th, True Romances on the 23rd and True Experiences on the 1st of each month.

Other Absorbing Features in November True Story Are:

"Cheaters"—A young wife, with too little to occupy her mind, Alice soon came to regard her search for diversion as a quite harmless but thrilling pastime. Certainly it was with no thought of wrong that she eagerly accepted the invitation of a woman acquaintance to take her to places of doubtful reputation where she could "see a little of life." But Alice's very eagerness was to lead her blindly into a most terrible situation, and was to teach her a lesson she can never forget. A powerful, thought-compelling true story.

"Mad Love"—Like many another girl who is misled by the false glamour of a "movie" career, Ruth dreamed of the day when she would have the world at her feet. So with beauty and ambition as her sole capital, she set out to conquer fame in the studios. Of course, there could be only one result, and she might have profited by her defeat if she had not fallen madly in love with a popular screen idol. Today it is all like a terrible dream, which she feels will never be erased from her memory.

"Never Again"—If ever a girl had reason to be proud of the man she was engaged to wed, that girl was Bernice. He was the cleverest, handsomest, most popular young man on the college campus. The fascination of his smile, his airy grace and charm, were qualities that few girls could resist. Then something happened in the middle of his junior year that was to turn Bernice's world of happiness into a vale of black despair. A true-life chronicle that will tug at your heart strings as only a story of real life can do.

Who Is To Blame?

In these days of so-called moral liberty, of religious doubt and conflicting points of view, who is to blame if young people fall into error through ignorance or indifference to Truth?

There is only one way to drive home the perils of wrong thinking and acting, and that is to emphasize by contrast the helpful and inspiring power of good.

In True Story Magazine each month, you will find a great variety of gripping "fact-stories" that touch life at every angle—stories that reveal the secret joys and sorrows, the temptations and struggles, the defeats and triumphs of people who have really lived the thrillingly dramatic events they write about.

Through these frank records of human experience, literally thousands are taught how to avoid those mistakes that can only end in remorse, bitter tears, and often tragedy.

The 18 heart-grIPPING features in November True Story afford excellent examples of the great work this magazine is doing. If you are not now a reader, start with the November issue today.

Don't be fooled by imitations! All Macfadden True Story Magazines have this seal in RED on the cover

Chicago Beauty

Miss Lillian Rau

CHICAGO, ILL.—To meet and dine with Lillian Rau in her charming home at 8117 Exchange Ave., one would guess that a year ago she was a nervous wreck, and did eat nothing—not even apples. Everything she ate fermented in her stomach, thanks to Adlerika, she was wonderful and no longer has a diet but can eat anything.

Intestinal Stasis

RECENT medical discoveries show that such cases as Miss Rau's—in fact, nearly all cases of stomach and bowel trouble—are due to just one cause, intestinal stasis. World-famous specialists tell us that this insidious disease, which is caused by improper food and lack of correct exercise, afflicts three people out of every four.

Intestinal stasis means the too slow movement of waste food material through the intestines. By lying too long in the body, this waste ferments, forms gas, and causes the cause of sour stomach, gas bloating and indigestion. Even if the bowels move daily, enough old matter may be left to form gas, hinder digestion and poison the system. Ordinary laxatives or soda or magnesia cannot give more than temporary relief from Intestinal Stasis or Gas. Only continued, REAL intestinal cleansing can help permanently.

Dr. Carl Weschcke, in his private practice, first used the bowel cleanser and intestinal prophylactic now known as Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal evacuant with vegetable buckthorn and cascara, together with glycerine and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. Unlike other medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Stomach Gas

THE FIRST effect of Adlerika is to relieve gas on the stomach and gas bloating. Often ONE spoonful brings out a surprising amount of old poisonous matter which you never guessed was in your system, and which may have been the hidden cause of gas, indigestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other trouble. Even if your bowels move daily, Adlerika frequently brings out an astonishing amount of additional matter which might otherwise poison your system.

Many doctors recognize Adlerika as the one dependable remedy for Intestinal Stasis and Gas, or whenever REAL bowel cleansing is necessary. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you.

MAYOR WILL CALL BRIDGE CONFERENCE

Wants Differences Adjusted So Voters May Pass on Exchange Proposal.

Mayor Miller said today that he would seek, within the next few days, to bring the chief parties at interest in the proposal to exchange uses of the municipal and Eads bridges into another conference, in an effort to adjust differences which would permit submission of the proposal to voters.

At the end of a conference held three weeks ago, it was indicated that city officials, railroad representatives and the Citizens' Terminal Committee were nearer agreement than at any previous period of the long negotiations.

Interpretations by Henry Miller, president of the Terminal Railroad Association, of the ordinance proposed by the Citizens' committee, removed many of the objections raised by the Manufacturers' and Alton and Southern railroads, competitors of the Terminal.

The Mayor said that he could not recommend to voters any plan which surrendered the city's active control of the municipal bridge. The Terminal feels that, to make the bridge most profitable, it must be permitted to have charge of the operation.

BRENNAN PREDICTS
IN COOK COUNTY

150,000 votes in the State he will do well.

"How about this story that you have made a deal with the Crowe-Barrett Republican machine in Chicago by which they are to throw your votes for the senatorship and you are going to let them get the county offices?"

"Say," exclaimed the prone boss, "do you think any man at the head of a political organization would make a deal like that? What is the senatorship from an organization standpoint—an ornament?"

Probate Clerk Versus Senatorship. "I'd rather, as a matter of political business, have the Probate Clerk in Cook County than both senatorships. We have county officers with 5000 jobs at their disposal. Compare that with half a dozen pieces of Federal patronage, and what is the answer? These folks are not amateurs in politics. They'd laugh at me if I had the temerity to offer such a trade.

"I'll get a flock of votes from the people affiliated with that faction, not as the result of a trade, but because they are interested in the wet end of prohibition, like every other political group hereabout. Incidentally, the senatorship does not mean an awful lot to me. Naturally, being in the fight, I want to win, and I hope I will be a good Senator, but I could be happy without it. As a matter of fact, we wanted Jim Ham Lewis to take the nomination, but his doctor wouldn't let him run.

"We had to have somebody at the head of the ticket, and when my fellows started to accuse me of trying to hand something to somebody else that I was afraid to take myself there was nothing else for me to do."

It must be hard for you to lie here while the scrap is on, but I suppose you still direct it?" was the next question.

No Big Political Strategies. "That is where you are wrong. The only thing that I am worrying about is to get this job of mayor off my leg. The boys drop in and tell me what is going on, but they are running the campaign. They are not any big political strategies to design. It is just a matter of getting out the votes. So far as personal attacks on me are concerned, Chicago knows my story, so that part of it takes care of itself."

There may be flaws in the logic of Brennan's presentation of his case. The Republicans, for example, say Magill's candidacy is an asset to them; that Brennan will not get half of 150,000 majority in Cook County; that his theory of the contiguous counties changing over night from Republican to Democratic is moonshine, and that even if his hopes of Chicago's vote were fulfilled, that 150,000 is not enough to overcome the feeling downstate against a Catholic, a wet and a city boss.

From a visitor's point of view the truth of the Illinois political situation lies midway between Brennan's diagnosis and that of the adversaries. This works out to the result that right now Brennan has a little the best of it. If he can maintain that advantage he will win in November.

If, on the contrary, the Antislavery League's drive scores most of Magill's anticipated following back to Smith, Brennan will lose, but the margin will be small in either event.

Sneed St., Sedalia, Mo., the mother of a large family says: "For 15 years I suffered from gas on the stomach and at times I would have to go to bed to get relief.

"I had awful spells with my back and often after eating I would vomit and dizziness would smother me. Once during a spell I nearly fell on the stove. Constipation bothered me and sapped my body of energy.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purgative" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

JACK SHARKEY WINS FROM WILLS ON FOUL IN THIRTEENTH ROUND

Negro, Despite a Big Weight Advantage, on Verge of a Knockout

Referee, After Warning Brown Panther Many Times for Backhand Blows, Finally Disqualifies Offender—Wills Shows Plainly the Effect of Age.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Graduates of Uncle Sam's sea-going outfit stand today in supreme command of America's heavyweight fighting forces.

Less than a month after Gene Tunney, ex-Marine, battered Jack Dempsey and won the heavyweight championship, Jack Sharkey of Boston, erstwhile Jack Tar, won a decisive victory over Harry Wills, Negro, and ex-longshoreman, before 45,000 spectators at Ebbets Field last night.

The downfall of the "Black Panther," who for the seven years of Dempsey's reign challenged unceasingly for the outstanding crown of pugilism, came on a foul. Wills, 37, was a bleeding, almost helpless figure, stumbling about the ring in an effort to stem the two-fisted attack of a 24-year-old "hope" when the referee, Patsy Haley, stepped between the fighters in the thirteenth round of the 15-round match and disqualified the Negro for illegal use of a backhand blow.

Wills Repeatedly Warned.

Wills had been warned repeatedly by Haley for unfair tactics. Prolonged holding in the clinches, whipping of his gloves backward across Sharkey's face, and Wills' old trick of holding with his left hand while he pounded away at the body with his right, all had brought their warnings. The wave to his corner meant the end of all championship hopes for Wills.

Wills, showing none of his former aggressiveness, and slow from a year of ring inactivity, was battered about the ring from the start. From the fourth round on, the Negro fought purely on the defensive. At the close, blood spurted from a gash over Wills' right eye, from cuts about his nose and mouth, and his left eye was nearly closed.

Sharkey, weighing 155, conceded 25 1/2 pounds in weight to his gigantic opponent, although Wills failed to fall under the fusillade, he was on the verge of a knockout in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth rounds. Ringside critics could award the Negro only one, the third, by a close margin. The second was even and the remainder including the 43 seconds of the thirteenth, were all in Sharkey's favor.

Wills had been a favorite in betting. Victories over Jack Renault, Eddie Hoffman, Jim Maloney, King Solomon and George Godfrey, all by decisions in the past two years, had disclosed none of the punishing power and brilliant

Jack Sharkey: Who He Is and What He Has Done in the Ring

JACK SHARKEY was born in Binghamton, N. Y., on Oct. 4, 1902. His only defeat by a knockout came at the hands of Romero Rojas in Boston, two years ago, when he was stopped in nine rounds.

He has done most of his fighting in and around Boston and the best men in the heavyweight division were brought in to try their luck with him.

He defeated Johnny Rizzo, Jim Maloney, a Boston rival; Jack Renault, King Solomon and George Godfrey in 10 rounds. Two years ago he defeated Floyd Johnson, Al Roberts and Homer Smith in 10 round bouts.

He lost decisions to Charley Weinert and Bud Gorman. He held knockouts over Billy Muldoon in seven, Pat Hane in two, Dan Lucas in two and Eddie Ricard in seven.

Sharkey has never been rated a hard hitter. He depends on cleverness for victories and he handles the hard hitters and the clever big men with the same easy style.

When he defeated Eddie Hoffman in Madison Square Garden some time ago he resorted to such deliberation that the Boxing Commission held up his money for several days in order to investigate an unfounded rumor that he had deliberately "saved" his opponent.

Sharkey is of Lithuanian ancestry, his real name being Josef Paul Cukosky. He was born in Binghamton, N. Y.

Real name Josef Paul Cukosky, whose victory over the Negro heavyweight, Harry Wills, entitles him to first consideration as challenger for Tunney's crown.

Marquette Will Outweigh St. L. U. 13 Pounds to Man

12 Pounds Conceded in Line and 14 in Backfield, on Basis of Probable Lineups.

Marquette University, which plays St. Louis U. here Saturday, will outweigh the Billikens 13 pounds to the man in the line and 14 pounds to the man in the backfield, a comparison of the probable starting lineups reveals. Because Marquette is a traditional enemy of the local school and each has won three and tied two of the eight contests played, the game is looked upon as the most important on the Billiken schedule.

They will probably line up as follows:

Marquette	Position	St. Louis U.
Rozani (185)	E. E. Kahle (184)
Klaus (185)	L. E. Kahle (184)
Gaukler (190)	L. G. Butler (185)
Reine (168)	R. G. Butler (185)
Randall (183)	R. G. Butler (185)
Gerlach (178)	R. G. Butler (185)
O'Keefe (150)	R. G. Butler (185)
Gosline (140)	R. G. Butler (185)
Garity (140)	R. G. Butler (185)

Both coaches, Mathews of St. Louis and Murray of Marquette, are up against the same problem, material just up from the freshmen.

Marquette has done a fine job of whipping his youngsters into shape as evidenced by the 52-0 defeat of Drury last week. Murray won his first game from Lawrence College 6-0 but last week met defeat at the hands of Grinnell, a heavy prospect, 17 to 2.

Bob Hannagan, former Billiken center and fullback, scouted the Grinnell-Marquette contest and reports that Murray's squad has power but has not yet hit its stride. It is a heavy machine and is due to get going soon.

Whether Mathews' lightweight can stand a good heavy beating for four quarters remains to be seen. St. Louis U. followers are wrought up over the team's losing thus far and Marquette will not be heavily favored around this section. The last time they were they trimmed the Billikens 19 to 14. That was in 1920.

The game will be played at Sportsman's Park. The playing field runs north and south over the right and right center fields of the ball park. The right field pavilion, then, is the main stand, the northern half being reserved for students and faculty.

General admission to all other sections of the stands will be $1.50. All the seats are covered, except the center field bleachers to which children under 12 years will be admitted free of charge.

FIELD REDUCED TO 12 IN ENDURANCE RIDE FOR SADDLE HORSES

BRANDON, Vt., Oct. 13.—The field of the eighth annual saddle horse endurance ride was reduced to 12 today during the second 48 miles of the 300-mile five-day trek over hilly Vermont roads. Moccasin, an army mount entered by Capt. H. H. Hargis, of the Vermont National Guard, was withdrawn.

The other mounts all finished in the allotted nine hours in good condition. The course led 24 miles mostly up hill to Rutland, with a roundabout return of 34 miles.

Pre-Series "Dope" Held Up In Cardinals' Victory Over Yankees in World Series

Only Instance in Which Figures Fell Down. Was When Hornsby's Men Outbatted Rivals in Seven Tilts—Thevenow and O'Farrell Outclassed Opponents.

By Herman Wecke.

The 1926 world series is history. The Cardinals won. However there are several interesting facts concerning the games which decided the championship. It has to do with the pre-series predictions. Figures on the seven battles, indicate that the "dope" before the games proved true in more than one instance.

Briefly the figures on the games circuit smashes, a new world series as compared to the pre-series facts shape up as follows:

The Cardinal infield was rated better than New York's. The series proved it.

New York's outfield was regarded a stronger batting aggregation. This was brought out in the series.

The "dope" indicated that with O'Farrell behind the plate, the Cardinals would have the advantage. That was proved.

Figures indicated that Alexander, Haines and Sherdel would prove troublesome to New York and Pennock to the Cardinals. And history shows they were.

In the "dope" the Yanks had a slight advantage in team batting. This did not hold true.

The Cards had a better team fielding average and they outfielded Huggins' men.

New York had the edge in experience, but it counted little.

Take for instance the infield. Bottomley played as good ball as did Gehrig, who was one of the outstanding Yankee athletes in the series. What's more, Sunny Jim was one of the two players to make a hit in each game. At second, Manager Hornsby, though under his regular standard, performed better than "Push 'Em Up" Lazzeri, who made a fatal error in the sixth game and started the Cardinals on their way to a five-run rally. The Cardinals' manager also outbatted his rival.

Then there was short. Here came the real surprise. Thevenow was regarded as a better fielder, while Koenig was considered the weak cog in the Yankee machine. Little Tommy, the silent one, came through as a fielder. He fielded rings around his opponent, making one thrilling play after another in the seven battles. And Koenig, as the "dope" pointed out, was a weak cog. In batting, where Koenig was supposed to have the edge, Thevenow outswatted him 417 to 125. Silent Tommy, in fact, was the leading hitter on both clubs.

At third base, Lester Bell held his own with Dugan, although Jumping Joe outthrew him. But Bell was a timelier swatter. Both made brilliant fielding plays.

The outfield advantage for the Yankees came because of the great batting of Earl Combe, who, with Bottomley, was the only man to swat safely in each tilt. Combe hit .387, Ruth .390 and Muesel .238. For the Cards, Southworth batted .348, Douthitt .267, Hafez .155 and Holm .125. So the Yankee advantage, given the three men in the early dope, holds good. In slugging the Yankee quartet also held the edge because of Ruth's four

Actor Boy Is Likely Winner At Dog Track

Has Shown Good Effort in Last Two Starts at Madison.

Actor Boy, of the Show Me kennel, in the best shape of his career is believed to have an excellent chance of winning his first race of the Madison Kennel Club meeting tonight. Actor Boy has been second on several occasions during the meeting but has never been able to nose his way in front at the finish. He will compete in the seventh race on the card.

A repetition of his last two races will land him first place in tonight's race. He was second to Pride of Kerry the other night when the latter covered the quarter mile in 25 4-5 seconds, and he was also a fast closing second to Marshall's Ribbon when the imported dog recently equaled Sulr Side's track mark for the futurity distance. Actor Boy will compete against five recent winners tonight. Steeple View, White Pop, Wasteful Girl, Mike's Hare and Lost Chord. Steeple View is the one that may give Actor Boy the trouble. Miss Black Gold, recently arrived from Charleston, W. Va., will also compete in this event.

Secret Camp Returns.

The five-sixteenths steppers have been augmented by the arrival from Charleston of Secret Camp, the old favorite, which at the last meeting won several races at long odds. In his first start of the meeting Secret Camp will have Yellow Boy, which has been improving, and probably Desperate Chance of contest with for the purse. Yellow Boy's second to Mike's Hare in a futurity race on Monday gives him an edge over this field. Texas Hobo lost a close to decision to White Diamond the other night, finishing second, and from now on is expected to improve. He will have Black Joe II to beat tonight. Pullman, Happy Destiny, Buddy Brannigan, Dreadful Girl and Dora Ridge are the probable winners of the other races.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Sharkey-Tunney Next?

GENE TUNNEY'S fortune is assured. If he can carry on in the ring, as everyone expects him to, a fortune of as great or greater proportions than that gained by Jack Dempsey awaits Gene.

That much was made certain last night when Jack Sharkey, the Boston journeyman, required about 35 minutes to demonstrate that Harry Wills was just a false alarm and a very old and tired one at that. Sharkey's victory answers the question: "Is there for Tunney to fight?"

With Wills barred by Tunney, Dempsey for a time seemed the only remaining possibility. The former champion was not even certain he really wanted a return match.

Now Sharkey enters the field, and there is not the slightest doubt that he will meet Tunney, if he can skid along for a few months without being beaten.

The Logical Contender.

SHARKEY'S defeat of Wills at once elevates him above the "hopes" that have invaded our shores from Sweden, Germany and other sectors of the world's boxing front.

Tex Rickard has planned an elimination of heavyweight contenders; but there is little chance that Jack Sharkey will enter. Why should he jeopardize his plain right to a position of "logical contender," by participating in a tournament against all comers? His victory over Wills automatically puts him in line for a challenge.

Tunney will probably waste through the Harry Perssons, Franz Dienes and Monte Munna, then take on Dempsey, if Jack desires a return go. After that, there will remain Sharkey.

The program promises a fat bank account for Gene and plenty of honor. For all of the big boys shown—Munn, Persson and Rickard—there are too green and slow to have the slightest chance with Tunney.

Dempsey is through; Tunney would repeat in a return match what he did as challenger. Sharkey alone carries a menial for Gene in that he is a BOXER.

But here again Tunney has the advantage. He is not only a boxer but he can hit much harder than Sharkey seems able to.

All in All, Everything is Lush and Inviting in the Heavyweight Harvest Field, for Gene.

A Real Task.

ALL Phil Ball needs to keep his Browns from suffering a total eclipse in popularity here next season is: One manager who is a disciplinarian.

An additional scout or two. Added coaching material. Three first-class pitchers. A first-class infielder. And maybe a catcher.

To start with, Ball already has invested $75,000 and three players. He still has some fine trading material in players who are still powerful but who have "outlived their usefulness" with the club.

And he has an abundance of material coming up from the minors, either men on option or players to whom strings of some sort are attached.

All Up to One Man.

THE ensemble of material may turn out all right. But the fate of the club is in the hands of its field director and to his genius for handling men. The greatest aggregation of talent in the world may be a drab last if the guidance is poor.

If you think not, recall Decoration Day of 1925. On that day the present world's champion Cardinals were in last place, led there by Branch Rickey.

Sixteen months later the same players, with the addition for part of the season of Southworth and Alexander, reached the pinnacle, led by Hornsby.

What's the Answer?

MUCH the same thing has happened to the Browns who, early this year, figured to be a contender for the pennant. They finished in seventh place.

BOTH PLAY COURSE IN 2 OVER PAR

Stars Are Slightly Under Form in Second Round Match; Wolff Leads Brooks, One Up.

By Jack Alexander.

Held defeated Manion four and three to advance to the semifinals of the Post-Dispatch Sport staff, BELLERIVE COUNTRY CLUB, Oct. 13.—The famous Eddie Held and Jim Manion golf feud, being enacted this time in the district golf tournament, carried the "usual" amount of thrills when the two players were all square with the score of 1-1 in the first round of the second-round match this afternoon.

Clarence Wolff at the same station was in front of Everett Brooks one hole.

Held and Manion both made the 18th hole in 39, two over par. Neither was showing his best. Neither was showing a tendency to be erratic at the tee, while Held's approach and putting left something to be desired. Manion was to a good start by taking two holes of the first round, a being squared. Held whiffed a putt on the fourth. The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth were all played in a 50-50 basis, but Held tripped on his opponent on the ninth to start the inward journey with accounts squared.

Held's card—5 4 4 4 4 5 5 4—39

Manion's card—5 3 3 4 4 5 5 5—39

Mahan Unlikely To Open Against Nebraska Eleven

Injury to Captain of Bears May Force Use of Second String Halfback.

Intensive defense drill against Nebraska formations featured Washington University football team's preparation for Saturday's visit from the powerful Cornhusker football combination, yesterday, the freshman eleven were given the opportunity to use Cornhusker tactics against the varsity, after a drill on the puzzling shifts which are the keynote of the Nebraska defense.

George Duncan, six-footer, replacing Jack McDonald at right end, added a total of 20 more yards to the line average. Al Miller, center, former Soldier, was given a chance to show his possibilities. Vesper, former letterman at the position, was shifted to guard in order to utilize the defensive strength which he possesses.

The center assignment is again expected to lie between Walter Brown, sophomore, and Bob Elliott, last year's reserve center, both of whom have been worked in the two games. Brown's defense outfigures that of Elliott. Elliott holds a comfortable margin in the younger by reason of his passing of the ball. That he is awaiting distribution at times that number of chances is not surprising when he made the change yesterday.

Mahan Injured Again.

The re-injury in scrimmage yesterday of Captain Mahan rendered starting chances very improbable. The medical staff declared it probable that Mahan be unable to start, the same backfield used against Roka, Haves, McDonald and Whittier.

McDonald and Whittier, who were injured in the game yesterday, were shifted to the backfield. The backfield is now composed of six pounds more than the line average.

Watching the line drill on the practice field yesterday, Coach Dr. Al Marquand, who in 1914 captured the Pikeaway team which defeated Nebraska, 28 to 7, on a muddy field in the only meeting which has ever taken place between the two schools. The game was played to a capacity crowd, and was witnessed at Washington gridiron contest in St. Louis.

In the Washington backfield, who was just been acclaimed All-American half, who had been chosen in the Southern Conference, and Capt. George H. Haves, who was chosen in the Pacific Northwest school. In the line, Jack McDonald and Feurhahn, end, and Col. Carl Krueger, tackle, and Al Miller, center. To these 11 men was accorded the privilege of making every minute of the game count. Rutherford making no mistake in the it up.

The directors of the Browns think it was due largely to bad leadership.

And the new Browns' fate will be just as much up to the leader.

Of what use is the clay, if the potter is inexperienced?

Courage Rewarded.

The Cardinals will declare a dividend this year, the club has not been decided.

Question it will be large, since the club back in 1921 or 1922 paid a 20 per cent dividend without any such profits having rolled up as were earned this year.

The best previous financial year enjoyed by a baseball club in this city was that of the Browns of 1922 and, before that, the Cardinals of 1918.

Neither was showing his best, Manion having a tendency to be erratic at the tee, while Held's approach and putting left something to be desired.

Manion was to a good start by taking two of the first three, the first being a square, Held whittled a point off Manion's lead by annexing the fourth. The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth were all played on a 100% basis, but Held tripped his opponent on the ninth to start the inward journey with accuracy.

Some Fly!

The only fly, therefore, in Sam Bredon's claim is the troubles confronting him when he comes to signing his team.

Only two or three of the world's champions have hanger contracts.

PRO TENNIS PLAYERS PERFORM IN CANADA BEFORE 3500 PERSONS

The Post-Dispatch Sport Staff, BELLERIVE COUNTRY CLUB, Oct. 13.—The famous Eddie Held and Jim Majon golf feud, being enacted this time in the district golf tournament, carried the usual amount of thrills when the Algonquin player was all square with the champion of Riverview at hole No. 9 in the second-round match this afternoon.

Clarence Wolff at the same station was in front of Everett Brooks in a similar contest.

Held and Manion both made the forward-bound trip in 39, two holes apiece. Neither was showing his best, Manion having a tendency to be erratic at the tee, while Held's approach and putting left something to be desired.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for only 75 cents. This is merely the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

GERMAN'S VIEWPOINT OF RESULT OF THE WAR

Dr. Gerhart von Schulze-Gaevernitz Tells City Club America Is Only Winner.

The most important result of the World War has been the transfer of the world's center of power and wealth from Europe to America. Dr. Gerhart von Schulze-Gaevernitz, former member of the Reichstag and professor of economics at the University of Freiburg, Germany, said yesterday at a City Club luncheon.

"To America an era of world history is opening," he declared. "Before the war, America was a great power but not a world power. She was cut off from the world and a debtor nation to Europe. Now she has become the great power of the world, with all the great responsibilities that go with it."

Says America Is Only Winner.
There has been a kind of ironic justice in it. America was the only one of all the great powers that was innocent of any part in causing the war, and she is the only winner. But on the other hand, America was responsible for the result of the war, for the German defeat.

"British and French leaders believed in defeat when America entered. Then it was silly for the Germans to go on. For every American soldier who actually went into the war, there were from five to seven drilling in America. They were so fresh and well-equipped that for Germany to go on, exhausted as she was, would have been useless."

"I was in the German National Assembly when I met the most delicate question of my life, to vote 'yes' or 'no' on the Versailles treaty. I voted 'yes.' It was impossible not to accept the peace but it was done under the pressure of starvation."

Moral Peace Necessary.
"Reconstruction, however, cannot go ahead under a peace extracted by starvation. A moral peace is necessary with the consent of both so-called victors and vanquished. There is not much difference between them, and France and England must learn that they are among the losers of the war."

In a previous address here, in 1923, Prof. Schulze-Gaevernitz drew a dark picture of economic and social conditions in Germany. "In many respects conditions are still very bad," he said yesterday. "Europe is broken into many small states—it has been Balkanized—and the economic boundaries which have been set up are absurd in the extreme. There are more than 7,000 and Germans under foreign dominion, fighting to maintain their linguistic traditions, to preserve their mother tongue."

"In the economic field the present state is impossible with so many small states, each with high tariffs. Germany, which has lived on its export trade, has had a hard struggle. Economic disarmament is more important than military disarmament."

Silent on Attitude of U. S.
Prof. Schulze-Gaevernitz expressed approval of the League of Nations in its European aspects, refraining from discussing America's attitude. He favored Germany's entrance into the League, but asserted that the league had not "been able to do very much."

"In this world of ours we cannot neglect small things," he said. "The League has solved some small questions and it may solve more. By and by, by many small questions you may work up to a big question—or a war."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Gustav Lippman whose guest he was. He is an elderly man, tall and spare of frame, has been with the University of Freiburg 25 years, and is chief of the section of economic research of the League of Nations. His command of English is good.

ed he already had paid, he was held prisoner until the car reached Kirkwood, where he was turned over to a policeman and arrested without warrant, he avers.

"GOOD-BYE," Chapter 35.

JOSTLED by the hurrying travelers who hourly besiege the offices of the American Express, Doris had difficulty in reading the letter that had come in answer to her appeal to her cousin, Henry Fielding.

Hartley took her arm and piloted her to a near-by sidewalk cafe where he established her at a corner table, ordered iced coffee for her, and for himself something stronger. While Paris, in its gayest early summer dress paraded the boulevards at the hour that is half twilight, Doris closed her ears against the deafening din of traffic and read her letter.

Hartley watched the swift changes of expression in her face, scarcely conscious that he did so. He was still a little dazed and bewildered by her announcement that Henry Fielding was dead, that Camilla was a widow.

Finally Doris looked up with a little fleeting smile, half sad, half wistful. She folded the letter carefully in her slim gloved fingers and sighed.

"It is all very puzzling," she told Hartley. "This letter is from Cousin Henry's lawyers, in answer to mine. They write, of course, as though I knew everything, so I have to put two and two together and guess the rest. But it seems that Cousin Henry went away on a long business trip the very day of my—disappearance, and when he came back, Camilla—"

"She hesitated and flushed and then met Hartley's intent gaze with uncertainty. "Camilla told him that I had decided suddenly to go to Paris with a friend, because I did not think that I was getting the right voice training in New York. He—he thought I had promised. He liked my voice, so—"

"He was quite right," said Hartley suddenly. "Your voice is lovely."

It was the first compliment he had ever paid her, but Doris was too engrossed to heed it.

"So," she continued, a plaintive note having crept into her tone, "he has left me quite a lot of money on condition that I remain in Paris and try to be an opera singer. I might have known it," she murmured with the nearest approach to bitterness she had ever showed. "It's just my luck."

"But great heavens!" protested Hartley. "Aren't you happy at the prospect? Don't you want to be a great singer?"

"No," said Doris flatly. "He shrugged and added seltzer to a tall glass."

"I give you up! You're too much of a problem for me!"

Doris seemed not to mind whether he gave her up or not. She sat staring absently at the passing throng, her head cocked untasted on the table in front of her. She gave every evidence of a young woman overcome by love, rather than one who has just learned that she has been made financially independent for life and finds the dazzling vision of artistic success almost within her grasp.

"I don't want to sing," she declared suddenly. "I loathe running scales and learning songs and I want—"

"She broke off and stared at Hartley's half-averted face. He, too, was thinking unexpected thoughts, to judge by his expression—the grim line of his handsome mouth, the restless fingers that twirled the stick between his knees.

"I suppose," said Doris to herself, "that he is thinking that now he and Camilla—"

"She put the idea from her as if she felt disloyalty to Henry Fielding.

As a matter of fact, young Hartley was thinking of himself and Camilla.

He had just learned that the object of his headlong infatuation was now a widow.

It gave him the shock of his life to discover that he was so filled with wild, unreasoning joy at the news. It shook his belief in himself to the very foundations. He felt an utter cad and rotter. He felt like the flittiest boulder imaginable.

Of course, he was still in love with Camilla, he reasoned. Not so long ago he would have laid down his life for her. He couldn't have gotten over it so soon. Or if he had, then he was the most disgusting scoundrel alive; then, he was, at heart, what he had feared people would mistake him for at the time of the elopement that didn't come off—a philanderer and trifler.

He brushed a silk handkerchief over his brow, suddenly moist and troubled.

Of course, he was still crazy about Camilla—only—she had hurt his pride terribly when she had thrown him down at the last minute when he'd been ready to sacrifice his whole future for her. And perhaps she'd shown herself to be a little more calculating with regard to the happiness and safety of Camilla than he had expected of her.

Then, too, hadn't Doris said that Henry Fielding was a devoted and faithful husband? Was that compatible with Camilla's insinuations about his brutality—his neglect—the black bruises that had proved the last straw? And Doris didn't she?

His promise implied that Camilla did. He groaned in spirit over his disloyalty to the lady who had reigned all those months in his heart.

He heard Doris speaking and brought himself to earth with a certain relief at postponing further thought over his perplexing problem.

"I beg your pardon?"

"I was saying," repeated Doris, "that I won't have to bother you any longer. These lawyer people say that their representative here in Paris will arrange everything for me, and I'll have the money right away to draw on. So I'll just go to the address they've given me and get it over with as soon as possible."

She took a sip or two of her coffee, brushed her fingers daintily with a wisp of chiffon kerchief, and drew on her gloves.

Then she rose and held out her hand frankly to Hartley.

"I'll run along now. I'll find the way. You've been awfully kind to me, really, and I'm very grateful and also very sorry that I caused you so much unpleasantness. Goodbye."

Before he could gather his astounded faculties to protest, she had drifted away in early purple twilight of the boulevard.

THE ELBOU APARTMENT.

Chapter 36.

THE Paris representative of the New York Lawyers who had charge of the late Henry Fielding's estate, proved a charming person and immediately took Doris under his wing.

He did not ask her embarrassing questions about where she had been all these months and why she had not communicated with her cousin prior to his death. He arranged his financial affairs for her expeditiously, and then, abandoning the professional, took a personal interest in his pretty client.

Through his kind offices, she secured a charming little apartment, delightfully furnished opposite the Luxembourg Gardens—a tiny place, but one provided with the kitchenette as she insisted. It was only a step through one of the gigantic gateways into that lovely green maze which surrounds the old Luxembourg Palace.

The lawyer insisted that Doris should not live alone and he produced an energetic little French woman who served as half companion, half maid. She seemed to have endless relatives in and around Paris to visit in her leisure hours, so her presence was never inconvenient to Doris.

There was the problem of a voice teacher and the lawyer solved it in the twinkling of an eye, and almost before she knew it, Doris was settled in Paris, and found herself going to and fro through its lovely streets and boulevards, in a motor car, tucked under her arm, quite as if she had never done anything else in all her life.

The lawyer—Mr. Harper was his name—then undertook to provide her with suitable social life. For a time—very brief time—he was the only caller in the little drawing room overlooking the Luxembourg Gardens. But, as Doris herself had said, she made friends easily and soon she had another line group of pleasant people around her.

Very fashionable people like the Riviera crowd. Her new acquaintances were mainly students like herself, with a sprinkling of writers, artists, musicians who had already "arrived."

He went to say, little Bohemian supports at studios in the Latin Quarter. She had glimpses of the life of the students in the cafes frequented by students in the Montmartre district. She attended concerts—dutifully it must be admitted—and went to art exhibitions.

Her adaptability amazed even herself.

She speedily forgot the idle days of play on the lovely Riviera. She forgot Hartley's family, Camilla and the life in New York. But she remembered Drayburn, Ia., and when she finally wrote to her Aunt Elsie, she received a reply which contained no reference to her rather vague explanations of her long silence, but urged her to study hard and become worthy of her late cousin's legacy and trust.

As for Hartley himself, he was having a time of it!

When Doris had walked away and left him with such a brief goodbye that day in the cafe, he had been so furious with her that he had flung away in the opposite direction declaring that he hoped he'd never see her again.

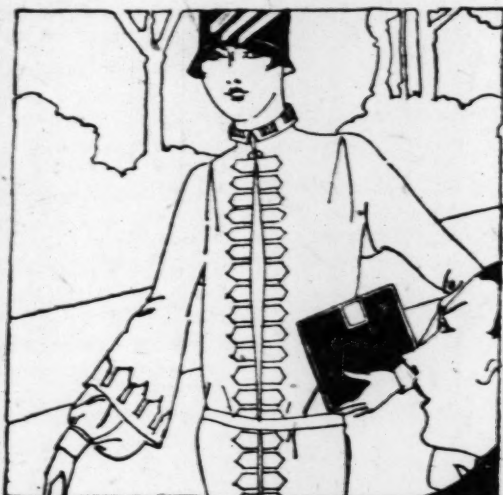

After all he'd suffered at her hands, after he'd had to lie and cheat and deceive his family to save the situation just because she'd been stupid enough not to get off a boat when it was sailing for Europe—after all that, she'd walked calmly off and left him gazing like a fool! She'd actually dismissed him, just as if he were a tiresome lackey that she had to put up with until she could better herself!

He was violently angry for all of 24 hours. The second day he shrugged and told himself that he was to be congratulated. At last he'd got rid of the little pest who'd been a bar to his freedom. She could go and jump off the Eiffel Tower, or get run over by a Paris taxicab for all he cared.

MODISH MITZI

Military Trimmings Captains A Style Or Two

By Jay

There's something almost military about Mitzi, thinks the Goofy as he sees her from afar. Which is just the effect Mitzi wishes to achieve by the gold braid trimming on her dress. There's enough gold braid on her hat alone to make her a generalissimo or an admiral.

There's no missing it, Mitzi is deriving inspiration—her fall clothes from the army or navy. The Goofy wonders which. The narrow, up-standing collar is braid bound and the very tailored buttoning of her dress on the shoulder proclaims a "uniform" effect. The hat has gold buttons on the brim.

The Goofy is beginning to think that he will be able to find Mitzi by the flash of braid. Here she is again with another braid bound, navy blue dress. "You've got everything but epaulettes, Mitzi," says Polly, commenting on her outfit.

"I sort of fell in love with him," admits "He's so distinguished. I wonder if it is the braid, the medals or the mustache?" (The Goofy wonders about the mustache. He might as well say, "Any way," continues Mitzi, "military uniforms are fashionable, and I'm going to wear one."

Mitzi and Adelaide are acting sort of chilly toward each other. They've had an argument. Adelaide says: "I don't agree with you at all, Mitzi. Not at all." Mitzi replies: "But you see, Adelaide, you are wearing a velvet coat combined with fur and so am I. That proves it."

The argument was about velvet being combined with other fabrics. Mitzi said there was not anything smarter than velvet with crepe, velvet with georgette, velvet with—almost any material you can name. The dress in the background is of crepe with trimmings of velvet.

"My dear," again pursues Mitzi, "four out of every five people you see in this hotel lobby dresses made of something combined with velvet." Adelaide is defeated. She has but to look count. Velvet ribbon is used for trimming on the dress at the left. Velvet of a contrasting color trims the other dresses. It wasn't much of an argument, points out the defeated Adelaide, but she was only saying that all velvet dresses were about the smartest things one could own. Or combined with something else can't really be argued about—not this season!

"I sort of fell in love with him," admits "He's so distinguished. I wonder if it is the braid, the medals or the mustache?" (The Goofy wonders about the mustache. He might as well say, "Any way," continues Mitzi, "military uniforms are fashionable, and I'm going to wear one."

CHEESE STRAWS

Mix one-half pound grated cheese with a piece of butter the size of an egg, and a little cayenne pepper and salt. Work into this enough flour to make a dough stiff enough to roll. Roll out on floured board until one-fourth inch thick. Cut in strips one-half inch wide and about six inches long. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes.

Note: These are excellent to serve at a luncheon or tea with a salad.

that while he didn't give a darn, he supposed it was only decent to see that nothing terrible happened to the little idiot. She was stupid enough to get into any sort of a mess.

So he wrote a letter to her and addressed it to the American Express. When no answer came, he wrote another—and another. Dropping around to the offices one day with an inquiry, he found that the letters remained uncalled for.

He was baffled for a long time. If Paris isn't quite the largest city in the world, it's still extensive and bewildering enough not to be able to place your finger on a girl who has deliberately lost herself. He tried sitting in front of the Cafe de la Paix at 5 o'clock on the old theory that if you stay there long enough, the person you desire to see will pass.

After a few days he gave it up and, dismaying as the prospect was, he set out to interview lawyers who handled Doris' affairs. He didn't know the name of the firm but he kept on doggedly and eventually with success.

Only his unquestionably respectable appearance led Mr. Harper to reveal to him the whereabouts of his pretty client.

At 5 o'clock that afternoon, Hartley, weary, angry, but determined, presented himself at the tiny apartment opposite the Luxembourg. A bright-eyed little French woman answered his ring and regarded him pleasantly.

"And who shall I say is calling?" she inquired when he asked for Doris.

"Tell her—her husband!" he answered, on sudden impulse, taking malicious delight in the little woman's gasp of astonishment.

OUR CHILD NEEDS MORAL TRAINING

Y OUR child needs moral training quite as much as physical nurture. This should be inaugurated practically at the moment of birth.

The formation of habit patterns in the plastic organism begins at just that moment.

It is the aggregate of habit patterns that forms the character of the individual in later life.

No undesirable mental trait in the child is too trivial to be disregarded.

Thus, for example, jealousy even in a little child should be taken seriously because of its possible tragic consequences. It often leads to anger and hatred, and may cause a child to hate a brother or sister who receives or seems to receive more attention, or to develop a hatred of one parent who seems to take up the time and interest of the other. It may result in feelings of failure and shame which may handicap a child for life with the so-called inferiority complex.

A child who is discouraged by feeling that he does not receive as much love and attention as others may become bashful and shut within himself, and draw away from all playmates and friends.

The jealous child, in turn, often is an object of dislike, for he may become domineering and exacting in his efforts to gain attention for himself. It may even cause real tragedies, and some of the most outrageous conduct of little children is due to it. Children of six and seven have seriously injured the new baby in a fit of jealousy.

Jealousy is a form of self-love.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON By HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT EVERY WOMAN DISCOVERS.

WHEREFORE, my Daughter, comest the Faint-hearted cry, "Deliver me from mine enemies!"

For, in the prayer of the Wise is "Deliver me from my FRIENDS!"

To love thine enemies is no FEAT!

For lo, thine enemy may not invite thee to her teas nor welcome thee at her dinner parties. But, neither doth she invite thee to a supper of "cold snacks" nor lure thee to a "pot luck" dinner, when thou mightest be enjoying thy favorite dish, at home.

Thine enemy may not admire the cut of thy bob nor approve the shortness of thy skirts. Thy face may be, unto her, a blot upon the scenery and thy garments a strain upon the eyes.

But, she doth not feel impelled to TELL thee these bitter truths "for thine own good"; and thereby to fill thee with an inferiority complex.

Thine enemy may add a decade to thy real age, and her middle name for thee may be "Antique." Thy figure may seem unto her a freak of nature.

But she doth not regard thee with reproach and advise thee to "go upon a diet" or beg thee to try a new beauty cream and a "chinchin strap."

Thine enemy may deary thy taste and secretly deplore thy morals. But she doth NOT borrow thy favorite hat, and graft thy perfume. Neither doth she ply thee with "good advice" and seek to "uplift" thee, until thou feellest as a "lost soul" upon the brink of destruction.

Thine enemy may revile thee and gossip about thee, behind thy back. But, she doth not worm from thee the confession of all thine inmost secrets, and proceed to dispense them as "sacred confidences" to all thy "set."

Thine enemy may sneer at thy ways and despise thy house-keeping. But she doth NOT sit at thy board and partake of thy hospitality; and then join in the indoor sport of "panning the cook" and pointing out the dust upon the window sills.

Thine enemy may not flatter thee—but neither doth she seek to "reform" thee.

She may not lend thee a helping hand in times of trouble—but neither doth she graft upon thee, in times of affluence.

She may not perceive thy virtues—but neither doth she stab thee in thy weak spots and take the starch from thy vanity.

She may not "understand" thee and love thee—but neither doth she constitute herself thy guardian and thy censor.

Thine enemy may not get thy heart's devotion—but neither doth she GET THY GOAT!

Verily, verily, it is an easy thing to "love thine enemies"—but to bear with thy FRIENDS requireth all thy strength and all thy charity!

is the simple rule beauty experts urge

Having a clear and charming complexion today no longer means long and costly beauty treatments. Modern skin care strives for natural loveliness, effected in a simple way—a way any woman can follow without expense.

The simple rule below has brought forth a naturally clear skin for many women when any other method failed.

It is only for one week. Note the improvement that comes. The accepted beauty method to keep the skin clear and healthy is the use of Palmolive Soap used daily.

RULE—MAKE IT YOUR STARTING TODAY

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly with your fingers. Rinse thoroughly with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, use a good cold cream.

Use regularly, and particularly at night. But never leave your face unclean. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely, clear and clear.

These ordinary soaps in the market above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty girls prove its effectiveness beyond doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Danny's Queer Craft

The one thing needed in a boat is certainly that it will float.

—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Slowly the old can went spinning around in circles

YOU will remember that Danny Meadow Mouse was holding his breath in an old can on the bank of the river, wondering what was going to happen next. He was hiding from a great gray cat. Danny didn't have to wonder long. That cat put her nose to the opening in the can and sniffed, and every sniff ran up and down Danny's backbone from his chattering teeth to the end of his funny short tail. Those sniffs were a dreadful sound. They sounded hungry. They sounded cruel. Danny didn't like the sound of those sniffs at all.

But it was only her nose that that cat could get in at that opening, and so those sniffs were quite harmless. Then she tried to get her paw in. Danny could hear her sharp claws scratching on the tin, and they didn't make him feel any more comfortable. He knew just what that cat was trying to do. He knew that that cat hoped to get her claws into him and pull him out. But that cat was what is called a double-pawed cat. She had two extra toes on each front paw and, of course, that made her front feet extra big. She couldn't get her paw into the can.

Presently that cat lost her temper. There is nothing more foolish in all the Great World than to lose one's temper, but almost every one does it, and this cat did it now. She struck that can with her paw. She knocked it this way and she knocked it that way. Poor Danny was rolled over and over, now on his head, now on his back, now right side up and now wrong side up. Finally the cat landed on the edge of the bank. Once more the cat struck at it. This time it rolled down the bank and landed splash in the water.

Now, for once, Danny Meadow Mouse was really lucky. When that can landed in the water it landed right side up and it floated. Of course, Danny inside couldn't see just what had happened, but it didn't take him long to find out that he was afloat. He heard the splash as the can hit the water. Then he began to be gently rocked. Every time he moved he rocked a little more. It made him feel sort of funny in his stomach. So Danny didn't move. He just kept as still as he could.

Slowly the old can went spinning around in circles and drifting farther and farther out from shore. "I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way," thought Danny. "There's nothing to do but keep still. Oh dear, I wish this can wouldn't rock so. I don't like it."

By this time the can was out where the wind could get it, and the wind was pushing it farther and farther into the river. There were little waves out there and these waves made the can bob up and down. Of course, Danny bobbed up and down with the old can. He had the feeling that the bottom had dropped out of his stomach. I suppose it really was a sort of seasick feeling. Anyway, it made him quite satisfied to do nothing.

Woodward's Candy Men

There was a current out in the middle of the river, and this current began to carry Danny's queer boat downstream. It was just as well that Danny didn't know he was being carried downstream, for you see, he wanted to go upstream. He was being carried back in the direction from which he had come. It was a queer boat, but it was a good one, for it didn't leak. And, after all, the one thing in a boat is to have it keep afloat. Danny's boat was keeping afloat, and until it should reach land that was all he could ask.

Down East Fish Chowder.

A solid five-pound fish cut into steaks one inch thick. One-half pound fat pork sliced, two quarts of potatoes, sliced, three-quarters of a pound of pilot bread and enough pepper and salt to season well. In a good-sized family cooking pot fry out the pork until crisp and brown, take out about two-thirds of it, put in a layer of sliced potatoes with a layer of fish, seasoning to taste, a layer of pilot bread, whole or broken in half. Begin again with pork, potatoes, then fish and pepper and salt, and pilot bread, until material is all used up, or the pot is full enough. Run in slowly enough cold water to come within about an inch of top layer. Boil one hour without stirring, lifting the pot occasionally, and giving it a quick turn to prevent sticking.

A Tree That Owns Itself by a Provision in a Will

THERE are a large number of trees in this country that are famous for historical reasons. Under one tree this treaty was signed by two famous Generals. Under another that quarrel was settled between two well-known characters. A third is a favorite of a famous poet and has been immortalized in verse and stanza. But there is one tree that is equally interesting, and has been little heard about outside of the city in which it stands.

In Athens, Georgia, stands a beautiful old oak tree. This tree so endeared itself to its owner that he deeded the tree and eight feet surrounding it over to itself. Accordingly, it is chained off, and on a marble marker at its base is inscribed:

"For and in consideration of the great love I bear this tree and the desire I have for its protection for all time, I convey entire possession of itself and all land within eight feet of the tree on all sides."

"WILLIAM H. JACKSON."

The tree is, of course, one of the sights of the city, and is lovingly cared for by the citizens.

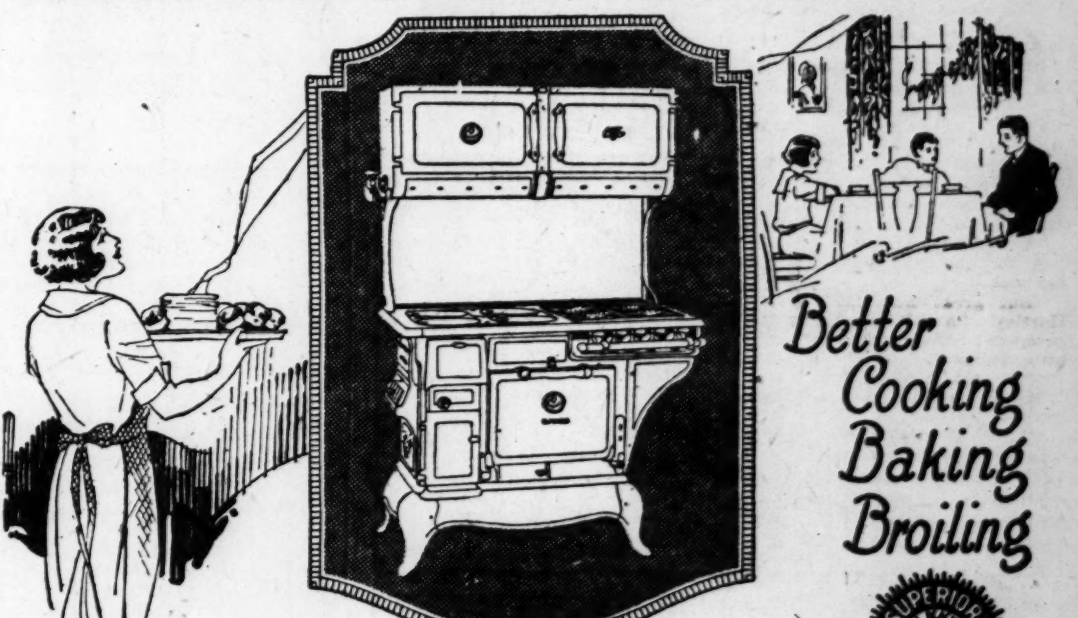

Since we are on the subject of trees, it might be well to write of another, which I believe worthy of mention. It is quite a jump from

Showing the Destruction Caused by Tow Bugs

As Good as the Cardinals

Landau Cedar-ized Upholstered Furniture means correct style and quality construction. Look for the name "Landau" on every cushion.

More Good Furniture Is Ruined by Tow Bugs Than by Any Other Agency

Tow Bugs are the greatest danger in upholstered furniture. These infinitely small beetles that come in the Tow usually used as a filler can cause the complete ruin of the finest upholstered furniture.

Landau Cedar-ized Upholstered Furniture is absolutely guaranteed against Tow Bugs. It gives you complete protection. There is no Tow in the Landau factory. Nothing but moss, felt, cotton or hair is used as a filler.

It can be had at all good furniture stores. Phone GRand 0709 or GRand 6387 for list of dealers in your neighborhood or further information.

GRAND JURORS SPEED UP INQUIRY INTO INDIANA GRAFT CHARGES

Former Bodyguard of Ex-'Dragon' to End Testimony — Stephenson Supposed to Have Told Little.

DECLINES TO TESTIFY IN CIVIL SUIT

Gov. Jackson Denies That Former Klan Officer Gave Him $5000 Check for Campaign.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 14.—
The Marion County grand jury today speeded up its investigation of charges of alleged political corruption in Indiana with a view to completing the taking of testimony within two or three days.
Thomas H. Adams, publisher of the Vincennes (Ind.) Commercial, who originally made the charges of alleged bartering of offices by public officials, and L. C. Stephenson, named by Adams as a source of confirmation of the charges, have not testified.

With Stephenson back in the Indiana State prison, after his trip to Indianapolis, the grand jury session divided interest with the possibility of the corruption charges becoming the subject of a hearing by the United States Senate Campaign Funds Committee.

The impression persisted here that Stephenson volunteered little information to the grand jury. It appeared to be based on a one-hour duration of his session, which was considered too short to permit the intricate revelations which Adams some time ago would be forthcoming if Stephenson were called to testify.
Carl Klenck, former bodyguard of Stephenson who was acquitted last year when he was a co-defendant with Stephenson on the charge of murdering Magize Oberholzer, is expected to complete today his testimony he started to give yesterday before the grand jury.

Jackson Denies Check Story.
That the jury would investigate new angle injected into the campaign by Floyd Christian, November attorney, appeared unlikely. Christian made public a statement in which he said that, while visiting Stephenson in the Hamilton County Jail before the Oberholzer trial, he had seen a check which said was "payable to Ed Jackson (Governor of Indiana) for campaign" and signed Stephenson.
It was pointed out that the jury would probably not concern itself with any statement as Christian indicated that he did not now have possession of such a check.

Gov. Jackson denied that he had received such a check from Stephenson, who formerly was grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux klan.

"D. C. Stephenson never at any time gave me a check for $5000 or any sum as a gift or for campaign expenses, and any statement that he did is absolutely false," the governor said.

Stephenson also said that Stephenson had told him he had spent over $200,000 in Jackson's campaign for Governor in 1924.

Silent in Civil Case.
After his appearance before the grand jury, Stephenson was taken to the Superior Court in connection with a civil suit, but refused to testify.

However, he did not let his journal from prison walls pass without a message to the general public.

Attorney L. O. Hill said that Stephenson wished the press to have the following statement repared:
"I regret that there are in Indiana men with souls so shriveled that they would take advantage of my unfortunate circumstances to use their selfish political plots."
No newspaper men were permitted to talk with Stephenson and he would not be asked to elaborate his one-sentence message.

Suit Against Adams.
Suit for $1500 damages growing out of an alleged fake oil stock promotion was filed in Superior court today against Adams. The complaint asserts that Adams sought "to defraud the plaintiff and others of the public" by placing a fake stock in Oklahoma oil when the lease had proved worthless "nothing but dry holes."
The suit was filed by Adams and is the first of a series of suits filed by Adams.
